Cotton Fleahopper Is Already at Work In Jones Co. Fields

"Jones County farmers have really been busy this week slaying weeds and grass so that their crops will do well. Now something else that we are going to have to fight is the cotton fleahopper," County Agricultural Agent H. C. Stanley said Wednesday.

The cotton fleahopper is already here and is really working on the early cotton. A cross-section survey of the county was made last week and it was found that from eight to 40 fleahoppers per 100 terminal buds were present in older cotton.

Texas A. & M. College Extension Entomologists recommended that cotton be dusted with a five per cent DDT and at least 75 per cent sulphur mixture at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre when 25 fleahoppers per 100 terminal buds were found or when it is evident that small squares usually not larger than a pin head are blasted before they are set.

A farmer can check his own field for fleahoppers or fleahopper damage, it was said, by starting at one corner of the field and going diagonally across the field checking the plants for fleahoppers and small blasted squares every 20 to 30 steps. If a farmer does not know how to identify the cotton fleahopper and their cotton is not fruiting as it should the vocational agricultural teacher or County Agricultural Agent will be glad to hold a Cotton Insect Identification School on the farm where as many as 10 farmers or more will attend.

Rodeo Performers Attend at Snyder, Enter Some Contests

Several Hamlin rodeo performers attended the Snyder Rodeo on Wednesday thru Saturday of last week on many rides and the like.

Wednesday night, opening night, in the Event No. 3 Senior Calf Roping, Arnold Galloway was No. 93 and he also rode again in Event No. 6 Double Mugging.

Thursday night we were alone with no performers.

Friday night there were two entrants in Event No. 3 from Hamlin; Joe Gray No. 143 and Glenn Adair No. 144 in the Senior Calf Roping. And Adair entered the Double Mugging, Event No. 6.

Saturday found four Hamlinites entering all in Event No. 3, Senior Calf Roping, Luther Marr No. 136, No. 143 and Arnold Galloway No. 93. Adair, Marr and Galloway entered the Double Mugging, Event No. 6. Joe Gray entered the Cutting Horse Contest Event No. 10.

Jessie Myers also won first place in the sponsor's contest at Coleman Rodeo for one night in their rodeo, but The Herald was unable to get the full results for the whole average, perhaps we can have all the low-down for next issue.

County 4-H Girls to Attend Encampment Tuesday - Wednesday

Jones County's 4-H girls will gather for an encampment at the Swede Park north of Avoca Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Ella Dora Eoff, Patsey Cooley and Jimmanna Beale attended the District Camp at Mertzon and learned how to plan a camp. These girls will help with the camp cooking, recreation and crafts. This camp is to be educational and fun also.

Each club in the county, according to Miss Loretta Allen HD agent for Jones County, will have a stunt for the night program. Every 4-H girl should make an effort to go because she will be missing a lot of fun if she doesn't, the agent concluded.

Right If She Can Do It.
"Now, Willie," said the teacher to a rather stupid pupil, "listen carefully. If I had five eggs in this basket and laid three on the table, how many eggs would I have?"
"Eight," was the confident reply.

Southwest farm prices settled to generally lower trends during the past week according to a report to The Herald from the United States Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

Cotton losses ranged from about $2.50 to $5.50 a bale for the week. Spot middling 15-16 inch closed Monday at 32.70 cents a pound at Dallas, 33.15 at Houston, 33.35 at Galveston at New Orleans.

Movement of the new crop pushed most grains lower, while yellow corn moved up three to four cents a bushel. Oats led the downward trend with a 12 cent loss to sell at 98 cents to $1. a bushel at Galveston in bulk carlots of No. 2 delivered to Texas common points Monday, and yellow corn brought $2.37½ to $2.39 1-2. No. 1 wheat brought $2.32.

Corn feeds and wheat millfeeds declined sharply. Offerings of No. 1 grade alfalfa hay failed to meet demand and medium grade lots moved well. Peanuts held firm, but peanut oil weakened.

Markets for spring chickens weakened in both producing areas and consuming centers. Northwest Arkansas growers got 33 to 36 cent at the farm. Dallas and Fort Worth paid 37 to 39 cents a pound. Light receipts of hens sold firm. Most current receipts eggs held a little above support levels, with best grades higher.

Hogs receded from record high prices reached at many places last week to net losses of mainly 50 cents to $1. Top butcher hogs ranged from $28.25 to $28.75 at most Southwest markets Monday, with Denver paying $29. to $30. A spread of $21 to $24.50 brought most sows and pigs moved largely from $24 to $27.50.

Cattle advanced to new high levels at some markets early last week, but declines set in and continued through Monday for uneven net losses to slight gains. Stockers and feeders felt the late pressure least. Stocker steers an yearlings sold from $22 to $23 at Houston Monday, and from $38 down at Fort Worth. Wichita paid $24 to $27 for medium and good grades. Oklahoma City bought stocker yearlings and calves from $25 to $27.50. Kansas City took choice heifers at $27.

Spring lamb prices rose to new all time peaks last week but dropped rapidly later to close Monday largely about $2 a hundred lower for the seven days. Medium and good spring lambs sold from $25 to $28 at Fort Worth in Monday's trade. Good and choice kinds brought $28 to $29 at Oklahoma City and Wichita.

Short French combing Texas wools sold lower at $1.40 to $1.50 a clean pound.

Santa Fe Carloadings Shows Down Trend

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Arabs and Jews Go Back to War As U.N. Truce Fails in Palestine; Truman OKs Farm Price Support

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FAILURE:

U.N. Truce

There was not peace, but once more a sword in Palestine. The United Nations truce had failed.

As the four-week interruption of hostilities between Arabs and Jews dragged somberly through its final hours, combatants on both sides were making preparations to resume warfare.

They had failed to come to terms, and that failure arose out of the fact that there had existed no political or social basis upon which a peace agreement could be rested, nor were either the Jews or Arabs particularly eager to create one.

Their attitude throughout the truce negotiations had been that the contest over whether the state of Israel should be allowed to exist must necessarily be a flat, win-or-lose battle with no middle ground solution possible.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in Palestine, had tried hard, but he had had to carry out his negotiations in what might be termed a spiritual vacuum between the Jews and Arabs. There simply was no meeting of minds upon which he might have capitalized.

Before the truce expired Bernadotte had endeavored to get it extended and continue the negotiations. Israel had agreed to such an extension but the Arab league opposed it.

Previously, during the last days of the truce, the Arabs had rejected a plan submitted by Bernadotte which included an extensive revision of the now defunct U.N. partition scheme.

Bernadotte's proposal would have restored the area of Palestine to what it was before Trans-Jordan was separated from it, and that total area then would have been partitioned into independent Arab and Jewish states.

The plan, as presented, had a ring of desperation in it. It must have been obvious, even to Bernadotte, that the Arabs would not accept such a scheme, particularly since they had violently opposed the original U.N. partition idea.

Trans-Jordan was especially antagonistic to the plan, insisting that it would put the nation under at least partial jurisdiction of the United Nations, thus making it no better than a dependent state.

As Bernadotte and his staff left Palestine guns already were firing and the Holy Land had relapsed into a condition of war.

FARM BILL:

Price Support

To the accompaniment of his now customary blast at the 80th congress President Truman signed into law a farm bill that extends present price support policies for 15 months and establishes a long-range, flexible support program to begin January 1, 1950.

Signing the bill, the President said: "I wish to make it plain once again that legislation for price supports is only part of the action this congress should have taken to meet the problems of American agriculture."

Thus, he was not criticizing the farm price support bill in itself but rather giving another re-run to the familiar theme whereby he has been castigating congress for doing a little when a lot more was needed.

Congress, he said, failed to enact legislation to strengthen the soil conservation program; it did not provide the necessary funds for marketing research; it did not act on the international wheat agreement. It failed, he specified, to meet "the serious problems of rural housing, health and education."

"In the field of agriculture, as in so many others, most of the business of the 80th congress was left unfinished," Mr. Truman observed.

Under the extension bill farm prices generally will be supported at their present levels. However, the support price for cotton will drop from 92½ to 90 per cent of parity.

The idea behind parity farm prices is to insure the farmer the same buying power, compared with the rest of the community, that he had during a favorable crop period. Usually the standard interval upon which parity prices are based are the five years from 1909 to 1914.

Five other basic crops will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity. They are wheat, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

Spending Money

As the economic cooperation administration closed its Marshall plan books on the first three months of its operation it reported that recovery shipments worth $762,747,140 were approved for Europe and China during that period.

That total is about 58 per cent of the goal originally set for the quarter, but ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman said the unspent balance would be used eventually.

Stage Manager

Rep. Hugh D. Scott Jr. of Pennsylvania has been chosen by Republican leaders as the national chairman to lead the party in the forthcoming presidential campaign. Scott is 47, a World War II veteran and represents the Germantown-Chestnut Hill district of Philadelphia in the house of representatives.

BERLIN: Trouble

As U. S. planes continued to fly tons of food into beleaguered Berlin the East-West stalemate over Germany was solidifying in a stubborn mold.

The Russian blockade of Berlin had brought the painful German issue to a head, and both the Soviets and the western powers were anticipating that events might begin to move very rapidly soon.

There were these developments: The Communists announced that they were drawing up a constitution for a German republic and also a two-year plan to link Berlin economically with the Soviet zone.

At the same time, on the free side of the iron curtain, German political leaders were expressing their opposition to the western powers' plans for a West German federal government.

In Berlin, power cuts were ordered in the three western sectors of the city to save the dwindling coal stocks. The action was taken despite the fact that coal shipments had begun to arrive by air.

Key to the situation, perhaps, was the Communist proposal for a new constitution. The Soviet-sponsored German People's Congress of eastern Germany announced that the document would be official. In a statement the group said that "Germany is an indivisible republic made up of states and that executive power stems from the people."

That appeared to bring Soviet intentions more or less out in the open. It means that Russia apparently is determined either to force the western democracies out of Berlin or bludgeon them into an agreement whereby the Soviets would be in virtual control of the city.

REPUBLICAN:
Changes, If

Although the presidency of the United States still is far from a reality for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican nominee nevertheless is giving considerable thought to some of the problems that will face him if he does get elected to the office.

If, for instance, he is to make good his promise to sweep out "16 years of Democratic cobwebs" from the federal government, these are some of the tasks he will be expected to perform:

Replace hundreds of officials in Washington and all over the nation with men of his choice who will put his policies into effect.

Establish with congress a coordinated program of policies for all federal departments, both foreign and domestic.

Streamline government functions and eliminate duplications in the present structure of alphabetical agencies and bureaus.

It will be a gigantic task. Policies that a Republican president would have to establish would range through the current conduct of foreign affairs; domestic spending of taxpayers' money; federal relations with private business, labor and industry; housing, veterans, agriculture and social improvements.

Then there will be the matter of choosing a cabinet that will be geographically representative of the entire nation.

PRICES:
Up Again

Consumer's price index, formerly called the cost of living index, for mid-May this year rose 6 per cent above that for mid-April to reach a new all-time high, according to figures released by National Industrial Conference board.

Expressed in 1923 dollars, the purchasing power of the dollar stood at 61.3 cents in May. That represents a drop of .6 per cent from April and 7.4 per cent from June, 1947.

RAILROADS:

No Strike

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough was not a man to stand idly by and watch society disintegrate, as he termed it, so he issued an injunction forbidding a national rail strike.

The injunction was a permanent one replacing the temporary "no strike" order he issued last May after the government had seized the railroads in the face of an impending strike by the three operating brotherhoods.

Justifying his action, Goldsborough said that if he had not issued the order "the whole economic and political system of the nation would be upset."

Although rail unions had protested that a permanent injunction was unnecessary, Goldsborough said they could not be permitted "to adopt a process which will disintegrate society itself." That held true, he pointed out, regardless of whatever merits the union's case might hold.

"Our political influence throughout the world would be done away with, we'd become a laughing stock. To permit a strike of this kind is something society should not be forced to tolerate."

But as the stalemate dragged on the disputants apparently lost some of their zest for the contest.

Finally a series of conferences, arranged by John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, resulted in a more or less amicable settlement: The unions agreed to accept a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour, plus some changes in operating rules.

Chortled President Truman as he called the labor and management representatives into his office: "You did this on your own hook and I feel very good about it. I congratulate all of you on it."

CYCLES:
Freezing

People who are addicted to the theory that human existence is defined by cycles have made a horrendous prediction: This will be a world of dictators for the next 250 years.

That prognostication was made in a "law of growth of nations," published by the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. This law indicates further that after the period of dictators will come a static or "frozen" civilization.

This "frozen" civilization probably will be a happy one, but it is, nevertheless, doomed to deterioration. The end is foreseen when younger peoples, eager for the loot of the world, rise to give the coup de grace to the emasculated western powers.

Who these younger peoples are is not revealed. They may be a fresh group of barbarians or near-barbarians who will come sweeping down from the north or up from the south.

Low Finance

In addition to giving Russia a false incentive toward becoming particularly nasty in Berlin, the recent currency revaluation in Germany's western zones caused a certain amount of personal financial confusion also. This German hausfrau turned in her old currency for the new money sponsored by the western powers, receiving 40 new marks for 60 of the old. But the new money will buy as much as the old—she hopes.

Headliners

IN NEW ORLEANS . . . Mrs. Morris Champagne gave birth to a son in Baptist hospital, 24 hours later Mrs. Joseph Liquor had a daughter, 18 minutes after that Mrs. S. R. Staggars was delivered of a daughter.

IN BUTTE . . . Deputy Sheriff Robert Russel was treated for burns on his right forehead suffered when he was demonstrating the safe way to handle firecrackers to a group of youngsters.

IN KANSAS CITY . . . Clyde E. Paine, a roundhouse worker, unable to sleep since he was transferred from the day to night shift, invented an electric fan that makes a clacking noise like the wheels of a freight train, lulling him into peaceful slumber.

IN MILWAUKEE . . . James Beard put a handful of nickels into a pay telephone, got a wrong number every time, was arrested when he was found walking down the street in a mist of rage with the telephone receiver dangling by the cord wrapped around his neck.

Farm Co-op Plank

IT APPEARS to this reporter that someone is due for a royal double-crossing on the farm cooperative plank in the Republican platform adopted at the convention at Philadelphia.

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives is pleased with the plank and its Washington letter, the "Washington Situation" of June 25, says "The statement on cooperatives was included over the most bitter opposition from the National Tax Equality association and the National Associated Businessmen, Inc. They appeared before at least three sub-committees during the week in a vain attempt to get a 'tax equality' plank."

On the other hand, the NTEA and the NAB, who are the bitter foes of the NCFC, issued a release at Philadelphia immediately after the platform was adopted in which they claim a decisive victory over the farm co-ops.

The release on the letterhead of NAB declares: "The present tax exemption of cooperatives and other tax exempt businesses failed to win support in the proposed Republican platform of 1948. This defeat for the co-ops was revealed today in the text of the party's proposed platform setting forth principles on which the Republican party will appeal to the nation for votes at the next November general election. . . . the co-ops had advocated that the Republicans declare in specific language for the present tax-exempt privileges." Now who is right on this issue?

The GOP platform plank on cooperatives contained just 13 words — "support of the principles of bona-fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated cooperatives." That's all it says. And the farm cooperatives say they are satisfied with that plank.

But the plank on small business, "the bulwark of American enterprise" calls, among other things, for "correction of tax abuses." And it is upon this language that the NTEA and the NAB claim victory.

Insofar as this reporter is concerned, our opinion is that the farm cooperatives are whistling in the dark if they are satisfied with the farm cooperative plank. As a matter of fact, the farm cooperative plank in this 1948 platform is IDENTICAL with the 1944 GOP convention platform which read "support of the principles of bona-fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated cooperatives." And further, the 1944 plank on small business provided "it must be aided by changes in taxation . . . and enforcement of laws against monopoly and unfair competition."

Tax Issue

And the 1944 plank did not prevent the Republican 80th congress from attempting to eliminate the tax-exempt features of farm cooperatives and neither did it bring about further enforcement of laws against monopoly or "unfair competition" for small business.

If the co-ops will remember, Rep. Walter Ploeser (Rep., Mo.) conducted hearings all over the country with the express purpose of ending the tax exemption of co-ops declaring they were socialistic or communistic.

And it was only the Herculean efforts of some of the friends of agriculture in congress that headed off a new tax bill when Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, started to hold hearings for this purpose, namely ending of co-op tax exemption.

The one thing upon which co-op leaders are pinning their hopes is that both Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP presidential nominee, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, vice presidential nominee, are on record as favoring retention of the tax-exempt feature. So, also, is President Harry Truman.

To use a favorite expression of Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, the long range farm program adopted by the 80th congress is a "delusion and a snare." The senate passed a pretty fair bill. The house balked and passed a stand-by bill which merely extended present price supports to January, 1950. Then the conference committee took the senate bill and the house bill, made present price supports applicable until Dec. 31, 1949, and the senate bill is presumed to go into effect then. What will happen though is that a new bill will be written before that time.

Over 800 Bills

Bills passed by the 80th congress likely will total more than 800 and in addition about 390 private bills were passed. Out of 61 vetoes by President Truman, six were overridden. But on the major issues the 80th congress fell by the wayside on such important bills as agriculture, housing, oleomargarine, national health, federal aid to education, a national road program, universal military training and many others.

Washington Digest

Some Things Are Worse Than Being in the Army

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Less than a month from now the draft will hit young Americans, but it will be a nudge, not a wallop. One of its chief immediate purposes is to deflect the flood of enlistments of young men from the national guard and the reserves to the regular services.

It is expected that so many eligibles will enlist rather than wait until they are invited that only between 200,000 and 250,000 will actually be requested to report or —

It isn't at all strange that there is a certain amount of reluctance on the part of so many young Americans to leap to arms the moment they ascertain that their country has decided they are needed. There are no bugles blowing. No foreign tyrant has soiled the nation's honor, there is no visible sign of a "military necessity" to disturb the even tenor of their activities—sandlot, movie, poolroom, work, study or play.

Baukhage

On the contrary, there has been an almost steady anti-military propaganda from all sorts of sources, all the way from the paid agents of the Kremlin to the innocent idealists or the doting mothers who think that if fighting must be indulged in, it certainly should be done by some other mother's boy. The polls show these propagandists are in the minority, but they are a loud minority.

Personally, if I were advising a teen-ager I never would recommend close order drill or tossing together a batch of firing data which would produce almost as many shorts as overs, as the one most terrifically scrumptious method of whiling away a couple of years.

On the other hand, I have had more adulterated pleasure in doing quite a number of things in which were not included learning the multiplication table, cutting the lawn, making a trial balance, working a paper route, translating the chapter which begins "Caesar trans Rhenum pons fecit," or even carving the Thanksgiving turkey the first time "her" relatives came for dinner.

As I say, I can imagine several things many people would rather do than these mentioned, including military service, but having done them, most people are better for it. I admit that for one of a delicate nervous disposition, unable to adjust his personality to groups, carving a turkey for the first time before in-laws might be the worst thing imaginable. It might be the one particular thing that the particular trauma affecting that particular individual couldn't stand. Extreme psychosis might result—even a psychotic condition that would lead to homicide or some other emotional outburst that a stronger psyche could have repressed or sublimated into kicking the dog or dropping molasses on his wife's gir-die.

I grant all this freely. There are men so unable to meet the simple challenge of the crowd, for instance, even those only mildly afflicted with agoraphobia, that they never could stand a simple formation like pay-calls. I have known the type in civilian life so sensitive to the presence of others that although he had been drinking peacefully for hours and accepting the hospitality of say two or three acquaintances, when an additional member appeared (just when it was our subject's turn to buy a round) he would jump through a plate glass window, four stories to the street below. Someway, he lacked the group instinct. I admit that type probably wouldn't get on in the army—long. However, I claim these are exceptions.

The majority of the problems which the youth of our land is going to have to face soon are not too tough. And they are good exercise—like parading in full kit. Meanwhile 694,000 men, without giving more than a thought to the hardships ahead of them (197,000 of these, according to the experts, are re-enlistments and therefore should know what they are getting into) will already have joined up, thus reducing the number of those who bashfully await their Uncle's nod this year.

Thus out of the 924,000 new men needed, less than 250,000 will be drafted. And many of those who are called will not be chosen because of the number of exemptions granted.

Veterans with combat records, with 90 days service between Pearl Harbor and V-J day, or with 18 months' service since September, 1940, will be exempt, as will anyone who has earned a combat infantryman's badge, a Purple Heart, Air Medal, or any combat medal. Exemptions will be granted to any veteran joining an organized reserve unit, or if the nearest one which he otherwise might join is an unreasonable distance from where he lives.

There are three kinds of deferments for those planning on going to college (1) for all full-time students, until academic year ends; (2) advanced students in certain specialties; (3) four years' deferment for college students enrolling in a full four-year ROTC course or other military courses under special conditions.

There are exemptions under certain conditions for married men, high school students, scientists, engineers and reservists.

So not many young men who don't want to be going to have to serve in the armed forces of their country. At least at present there seem to be enough ready to step forward before they are actually called.

As I remarked, it is easy to understand why the average youth would rather not accept the restrictions and discipline of army life. A part of the lack of enthusiasm for soldiering is due to the long tradition in the United States that soldiering is a wartime business for all those who don't make it their fulltime business. And I use the word business because it describes a career honored in this country far above that of the professional man—the artist or the writer—and the homage rendered is even greater in comparison if a member of the military profession is involved, excepting, of course, war heroes.

This is something hard to change. But the thing we can and should combat is the propaganda referred to earlier—propaganda which is put forward in many cases for far different reasons than even the proponents realize.

Far too often objection to military service is made on the basis that it in itself is a bad thing or a wasteful thing, when the real reason behind the argument is a selfish unwillingness to take the risk or sacrifice the time and effort which the service involves.

Frequently this false reasoning stems entirely from the influence of a parent whose purely selfish possessiveness has perverted the mind of a youngster who otherwise would accept his responsibility and take his training in his stride with no more than the ordinary, harmless grouching which is as much a part of military service as the alibis at the 19th hole.

It Wasn't Like This
In the Old Army

The army psychologists have been working double time ever since they discovered that it took more than guts and gunpowder to win wars, and that the winning was easier on something besides hardtack and whiskey.

In World War II, besides the best food an army ever ate, better medical attendance than the average civilian can get, and a lot more superlatives, the armed forces went in for yards and yards of colored ribbon. It did no harm, even if the British did say the Yanks got a new service stripe every time they saw a battle in a newsreel. And it helped morale.

And now something new has been added. A whole new system of chevrons in two colors have been devised for combat and non-combat non-commissioned officers. Combat leaders—squad sergeants and platoon sergeants, for example—get an inch-wide tab of green in the middle of each shoulder loop.

Despite all this, I can't help thinking of the verse that came out of a war where the prevailing color of olive drab—with the drab predominating. It goes like this: Oh the general with his shiny stars, leadin' the parade, the colonel and the adjutant a-sportin' all the braid, the major and the skipper—none of 'em look so fine as a newly minted corporal a-comin' down the line!"

He Couldn't Say Anything

Before the Democratic political convention, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower couldn't sit down to write a letter without reading in his newspaper the next day that that letter had been translated into an acceptance on his part to run against Truman for the presidential nomination.

Had Eisenhower written a letter saying that he often leaned back to dream about the North African campaign or to think about the decisions at Casablanca, someone would have been sure to come forth to say: "See that? He talks about a campaign—obviously hinting at the presidential race—and 'decisions at Casablanca'—get that? Casablanca is Spanish for White House!"

THE BATTLE of the two leagues for all-star talent goes snappily from year to year. This season the National has the jump on its American league rival when it comes to the rookie contingent, but the American still has the lead in veteran headlines.

The average playing quality in both leagues this season hasn't been any too hot.

It hasn't been boiling at any point. The effects of the long war, the draft and war service, haven't worn away yet. They are still in evidence by the number of ballplayers in the big leagues who are not big league ballplayers.

This applies especially to pitching, with any number of right and left arms trying in vain to locate the plate. There have been too many badly played games, too many misplays. But there are still more than a few stars.

How would you size them up? Here, at least, is a starter: American league—Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Lou Boudreau, Joe Gordon, George Kell, Ken Keltner and Allen Zarella.

National league—Stan Musial, Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer, Country Slaughter, Johnny Mize, Andy Pafko, Pee Wee Reese, Del Ennis, Tommy Holmes and Carl Furillo.

The National league has come up with the stronger hitters in Kiner and Sauer, two able powerhouses in human mold who can hit the ball a long way. As things look at this somewhat early date, the older league has picked the better crop of kids.

Lack Great Ballplayers

But outside of Musial, the older circuit has nothing to match Williams, Boudreau and DiMaggio as great ballplayers.

Williams is the only ballplayer left with even an outside chance to crowd Ty Cobb's brilliant lifetime record of .367. Williams is up above .350 for his entire career, which means he will need two or three .400 seasons to start a threatening challenge.

In any event, Williams is the only ballplayer left hanging around with the Hornsby, Jacksons, Sislers and one or two others who belong on the higher uplands of swat.

Williams is the last of the big hitters, the only one who might know another 400 year in his league. The National has its challenger in Musial, a great ballplayer, and another potential 400 entry. Williams and Musial are the two best we have left when it comes to moving the old ash furniture around the house.

The pitchers? You can forget about them. There isn't a pitcher today in the same class with Cy Young, Pete Alexander, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson—especially Johnson. And no one around who is as good as Eddie Plank or Lefty Grove.

The last great pitcher the game had was Dizzy Dean. Bob Feller could have been, if it hadn't been for his outside interests, plus the war. Hal Newhouser isn't too far off. Ewell Blackwell was on his way when a sore arm bowled him over.

Golf Psychology

Golfers can't understand why their games should change so quickly and so sharply.

Golf is largely a game of mental attitude for the day. This varies sharply. There are certain days when you can concentrate on what you want to do. As Jim Barnes put it—"Concentration is thinking of the right thing—at the right time."

This means that you can remember to swing smoothly—to keep your head in place, two of the essential things to do. A day later you'll keep hurrying your backswing and then hurry your downswing. Your mental attitude is one of hurry.

"On the days I play well, or better than usual," a certain leading amateur said recently, "I feel lazy. That's a good way to feel if you want to score. Feel lazy. That doesn't mean you have to loaf walking. It means you are in no hurry to get the club head in motion. You loaf on the backswing and then loaf on the downswing."

Finish Your Backswing

This is true enough. On certain days, the golfer starts his downswing before he finishes his backswing. This is one of the game's most common faults. Unless the backswing is fully completed, the downswing is wrecked in advance.

"You looked up on that one," someone will say. Looking up wasn't the fault. Hurrying the backswing was the fault—the reason, the head was lifted.

On other days you can't. You try to—but it won't work any too effectively. On certain days, you can think only of swinging the club head

Hamlin Man Appointed to 3-Year Term On FHA Committee for Jones County

Appointment of William C. Eoff, Route 1, Hamlin to a three year term on the Farmers Home Administration county committee for Jones County was announced Wednesday by L. J. Cappelman, state director.

Eoff succeeds Euclid D. C. Appling, whose term expired June 30. Also on the committee are Charles M. Wolsh of Route 3 Stamford and Walter L. Alford of Route 2, Anson. A committee of three serves in each agricultural county through out the Nation in which the agency makes farm ownership and operating loans. Appointments are scheduled so that a committee always has two experienced members.

The FHA county committee has an important place in making supervised credit available to local farmers, according to George L. von Roeder, county supervisor. Rowed through the agency an ap-

Before any money can be borrowed must have the approval of the county committee. In the case of farm ownership loans, the farm to be purchased, enlarged or improved must also be approved by the committee. "The members know agricultural conditions in the county and are often familiar with the farm the applicant plans to operate," von Roeder explained.

In addition to approving loans the committee cooperates with the county supervisor in overall administration of the program in the county. Periodically they review the progress of borrowers to determine whether they have reached a financial position that would enable them to refinance their loans through private lenders. A farmer who is eligible for credit from regular lending sources is not eligible for a loan from the Farmers Home Administration.

"Using this system of operation, the agency has helped 700 families in Jones County toward better farming and better living with farm purchase and farm operating loans," von Roeder said. In the past 12 months 156 applications have been received for this type of credit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bessire and children, Kay and Jack, Mrs. L. B. Holden were recent visitors with is brother Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bessire on the Tom B. Medders Ranch near Wichita Falls.

Agricultural Conservation Policies Are Outlined to Benefit Nation As a Whole

Agricultural Conservation Program exists because the public benefits from soil conservation. Conservation of our soil and water resources is vital to everyone—townspeople as well as farmers. The health and welfare of this succeeding generations depends upon the maintenance of the productivity of our farm lands according to the Jones County ACA.

Every part of the Agricultural Conservation Program and everything done under it must be in the National interest. Every possible practice, plan and procedure must meet the test as to whether it contributes to the Nation's welfare and not alone to the benefit of the individual farmer concerned.

The purpose of soil and water conservation is to prevent all processes of soil deterioration—to keep soils from washing and blowing away; to rebuild those which have been abused; to retain and improve their productivity and tilth; to improve range; to protect watersheds, and aid in flood control; to protect and improve farm woodland and to make best use of agricultural water. Practices which in reality are production practices only and which make no essential contribution to a system of conservation farming, have no legitimate place in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

It is the purpose of the program to assist farmers in carrying out conservation practices over and above those which would be performed without program assistance. It is not the policy to pay farmers for all conservation measures carried out by them. Program assistance should be approved for only those practices which the farmer is not customarily carrying out in needed volume.

The program should contain provisions which will help farmers meet urgent conservation problems which they would not meet without some assistance. All farmers should be informed of the assistance available under the program.

Barking Up the Right Tree.

Dad—"It's just a prelude to a dog's life."

gram and should be encouraged to meet the conservation needs of their farms.

The conservation practices approved for assistance on any farm should represent orderly progress toward the accomplishment of conservation farming. Priority should be given to practices required to prevent serious or irreparable damage.

A simple and practical conservation plan should be developed for each farm. Plans developed by farmers cooperating with other agencies should be utilized by committees to the fullest practicable extent.

Wholehearted cooperation ought to be maintained at all times by all agencies which are in position to aid in conservation. The advice and assistance of technical agricultural workers should be utilized fully in formulating programs.

Every county and State should have a sound, long range program for agriculture in the area which takes into account conservation of the soil and water resources. Conservation is influenced by the type of farming as well as by individual practices. The Agricultural Conservation Program should emphasize practices which aid in the expansion of conservation types of farming.

In the formulation of conservation programs and the approval of practices, full weight should be given to measures that protect watersheds and aid in flood control. This should be stressed particularly in areas subject to recurring flood damage or where organized flood control programs are being

'Railroader' Cash Has 'Write-Up' in Papers

(Ed's Note. The following article, in the column, "Up and Down the Santa Fe" first appeared in the San Angelo Standard and has been reprinted in other papers and concerns Walter Cash of Hamlin).

Retired Section Foreman Walter Cash sitting around reminiscences going over the past remembers that he has been the papa or trainee of many a section foreman for the Orient - Santa Fe. Among them are L. F. Fannin who Cash oked and put out as foreman July 22, 1908, and who is now also retired and lives at Chillicothe; Sam H. Tarvan, who was promoted on Aug. 14, 1922, and who is now the section foreman at Fort Stockton; T. L. Taylor promoted Sept. 9, 1926, and who is now section foreman at Big Lake; Ray Thomas who was promoted Dec. 1, 1916, and is now the section boss at Christoval.

Among others Cash helped promote are two Hamlin men: Tom Taylor and G. L. McCracken. Others are: Conductor P. F. Fannin, to section foreman in 1916; E. L. Walden, now of San Saba; besides four others who are now deceased. Walter Cash has worked in several departments of railroading and at one time served as roadmaster. He was promoted to section foreman himself Feb. 7, 1906, at Hamlin.

As Father's Day rolls around, Cash, having no sons of his own, likes to look on these fine fellows as "His" and wants them to know he has the same fatherly interest in them as if he had been their real father.

Cash makes his home in Hamlin where he served the greater part of his railroad career.

ONE MORE JUMP

By ROBERT C. BLACKMON

"I've told you it makes no difference to me, Ralph, and I mean it. It really doesn't."

Dusk dimmed the coral gold of Harriet Marne's hair, dimmed the blue of the light dotted buildings rising above the flat roofs upon which she and Ralph Pell stood. It filled with deep shadow the narrow slot of the alley between them, and the noise of the city was a screen about them, isolating them from the rest of the world.

"That's what you think now, but you'd get straight in your thinking in a few weeks, or months, or years. Then it would make a lot of difference." Across the alley, Ralph Pell leaned bronzed arms on the low brick parapet of the other building and shook his head in slow deliberation. Pink neon glow spilling into the alley from the street eight floors down glinted on his brown eyes and made odd shadows in his curly brown hair. It changed to an impossible color the tan of his knitted sport shirt. "After that, it would always be there between us. Or rather, it wouldn't be there."

He laughed harshly and reached down to feel, through brown trouser fabric, the device which substituted for the flesh and bone he had left on a field in Normandy when gunfire from the ground met parachutes drifting silently in the darkness. He would never forget that.

"No, Ralph," Harriet's small fist struck the stained brick of the low parapet bordering her own flat roof, as if to drive understanding across the dark drop of the alley between them. "It would never make any difference to me. To me, you would always be—"

"Normal?" His voice was flat and bitter.

"Please, Ralph." Her voice rose a little.

"Sorry, but I'd never be that, even with two real legs." He laughed shortly. "Service medico says I'm part of a mind, as well as part of a man. Let's don't kid ourselves. Too much is riding on it. It would always be there between us like—well, like this alley is between us now. I'd have as much chance getting over it as I would getting over this alley." He glanced down at the eight-story drop, the sliver of pavement below. "Imagine me doing that. Be your age. Get wise to some facts. The best thing for both of us to do is to forget we ever—"

"Ah!" He made a savage gesture. "Let's talk about something else."

Harriet said that quickly, almost desperately.

"Let's talk about you peeping at me on my roof here this summer. Let's talk about you waiting downstairs to introduce yourself as the peeper. Let's talk about the places we have been together, the things we have done. Let's talk about our meeting up here with the alley between us in the evening. Let's talk about—"

"Her voice stopped for a moment on an odd, sharp gasp. "Let's talk about the big ape escaping from the city zoo this afternoon. Let's—"

"Ape escaping from the zoo?"

Ralph Pell stood, tall and slender in the night. "I haven't heard anything about it. You're sure?"

"You probably missed it." Harriet laughed a little shrilly. "The ape is big and black and ferocious. I—certainly wouldn't like to meet him up here on my roof alone, with no one here to help me. Goodness! Oooooooh!" She shivered audibly.

"No chance of that." There was amused tolerance in his grin. "The ape's probably back in his zoo cage and glad to get away from humans. And I didn't peep at you on your roof. I looked. It can't be a crime to look at softness and beauty and sweetness, with so much hardness and ugliness and bitterness in the world. It can't be a crime for a—"

"Ah! Let's talk about the ape!" he finished quickly, harshly.

"Well, I like that." Harriet laughed.

She moved away from the parapet, small and shapely in the night against the neon sky. "I'm cold. I'll have to get a wrap. Don't go away. I'll be back in a minute."

Ralph Pell watched her cross the flat roof of the other building to the small shedlike structure that housed the stairway. It was about forty feet away. Then he jammed his hands down into his trouser pockets, swore softly and kicked at gravel on his own flat roof with his good foot, balancing himself on the artificial limb. His eyes were stormy, his lips tight.

"It would never make any difference to me. To me, you would always be—"

Harriet was swell people. That made it tough, but positive. She deserved a whole man. Years, or maybe only months or weeks from now, she'd look back and be glad that things turned out as they had. She'd realize that he was right, and maybe she'd understand why—and—well, everything. It was tough now, but—

HARRIET'S small figure appeared in the doorway of the stairway shed on the other roof. Even as she appeared, a strange black shape came between them, all but blocking her from his view. Then he heard her scream, shrill and clear in the night.

"Ralph!"

The impact of the two words drove him forward until his knees struck the edge of the low brick parapet bordering the eight-story drop into the alley between the two buildings.

He heard Harriet scream again. Shouting for help would be useless. By the time someone heard and understood and reached the other roof, it would take many minutes to run downstairs, cross to the other building and get to the roof. In the meantime, . . .

Sweat came out on his face as he put his good foot up on the edge of the brick parapet and thrust his lean weight up with the other leg. Grunting with effort, he flung himself out over the alley and toward the brick parapet of the other building roof.

Thy Word

Grace Nell Crowell

AS THE wild things store their food for each winter hour,
Thus, Lord, I have hid thy word within my heart,
To draw upon for food, for strength and power
When the winds blow cold and darkness is a part
Of daily living. I have safely stored
Thy word, dear Lord, a precious golden hoard.

So radiantly it glows within my breast,
It is like firelight, like candleshine.
I share it with the hungry and oppressed,
I give it out, and still thy word is mine.
I should be as a beggar in my need
Had I not hid this food on which to feed.

For a moment, he was drifting down through the black Normandy night, a huge silk dome above him, bracing himself for the blast from the ground, the numbing shock of bullets striking.

His artificial foot struck the other parapet and slipped off. He fell. There was a quick, breath-taking drop toward the pavement eight floors down, then his outflung arm struck brick. Brown fingers curled over a sharp edge, gripping. Strain came on the arm as he stopped the fall, and his weight all but tore his fingers loose. Small, sharp sounds came from his lips and he got his good leg up, hooked the heel over the edge of the parapet, then levered the rest of him up. He rolled over the parapet top and dropped to the flat gravel roof of the other building, and his heart beat was shaking him.

Even as he struck he was up and running toward Harriet and the black shape.

He came within reach, laced fingers into stiff, coarse fur and jerked savagely to drag the black shape away from Harriet. The fur yielded with an ease that all but made him fall, and he found himself holding the black-furred pelt of a small animal. There was felt sewn to the underside of the pelt, and he recognized the thing.

"Hey! This is the little black bearskin from your apartment!" He yelled at Harriet Marne standing before him in the darkness, small and quiet. "Hey! You made me jump that—I might have—"

"I knew you wouldn't fall—couldn't fall." Harriet Marne started laughing and crying at the same time. "It was just one more jump you had to make—to prove—Oh, Ralph!" Her lifted arms were slim and white in the night.

Ralph Pell dropped the pelt, and there was no further need for words.

Tricks for Teens

THOSE DISC JERKIES

We weren't aware that those recorded radio programs, M. C.'ed by eager young beavers known as "disc jockies," had become so much a part of teen-age life until one of our hi style scouts from Nashville, Tenn., told us it was customary to end up an evening date at the local radio station to watch the platters go 'round and listen to the jockey joke. That piece of news set us out on the trail for more disc jockey info. Tune in to the next transcribed paragraphs, if you're interested.

MOTHER'S DAY—Up in Montreal, Canada, Disc Jockey Bob Horne, who conducts a regular after-school clam bake for teen-agers, has established every Thursday as Mother's day. Teen-agers request records to be played for their mothers and the Mother-of-the-Week is picked from their letters and is sent a dozen roses. Wonder if any mother has been honored with Spike Jones' "William Tell Overture."

RHYME TIME—Out Detroit way, a disc jockey known as "Jack the Bell Boy," reads poems submitted to him by teen-agers. He also sends out membership cards and club pins to every teen-ager who wants to join his disc club.

CLOCK WORK—In Dayton, Ohio, teen-agers depend on Bud Baldwin's "Breakfast in Bedlam" to get them to school on time. And in Oklahoma, disc jockey Tom De Vore spins special "Two-Minute Egg" tunes for the benefit of housewives who like to boil their eggs to music.

CELEBRITY SESSIONS—Lucky St. Louis teen-agers who attend Disc Jockey Gil Newsome's "Teen Thirty" club have actually met such guest stars as Buddy Clark, Nat "King" Cole, Eddy Howard, Frankie Carle, Stan Kenton and, oh, so many others. Also, after the broadcast, there's an hour of dancing right there in the studio.

Well, as one disc jockey said to another disc jockey, "Go fly in a saucer." And that, junior, explains the mystery of those discs you saw in the sky last summer.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Life's Problems Are Endless

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

The trouble is that Norma and Fred never were married. Fred had a living wife when he and Norma first fell in love.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

FUNNY, isn't it, how many women and men, too, would be completely happy if not for one thing? Just set one little detail right and life would be simple again, as it used to be when they were young.

Who cannot remember certain house parties that were so much fun, excitement, flattery and confidence that there was not a cloud in the sky? When the dresses mother had packed and ironed were just the right dresses? When one borrowed a dashing hat, climbed a mountain, came back to some cabin soaked and ravenous, devoured gargantuan meals and sat drowsy and content before a blazing fire thinking that life simply couldn't be more glorious!

Isn't it a pity that the picture has to cloud so soon, that complications, mistakes and troubles move in so early and take up their abode with us?

Especially now is life anxious and clouded for most of us. Even if we forget our own petty trials, there is always the shadow of hungry babyhood in Europe and of struggling, warring, bewildered and unscrupulous governments mixing everything up all over again and robbing us of our last feeble effort to get our philosophy working. Taxes worry us.

Where Grandmother had three contented and efficient servants and mother always had at least one, gallant little Joan of today hasn't any and yet she wants to raise babies, keep a nice house, entertain, keep out of debt and occasionally go dancing with Jack as they used to do. Small wonder that for some of today's women the problem is too tough and they are going in for psychopathic reactions at a rate that would put in the shade the vapors, faints, nerves and weeping fits of their Victorian forebears!

Norma Wilcox has only one gnawing, burning problem, but she would swap it sight unseen for 20 of the usual kind. She is 36, a woman to whom years have brought an increasing beauty and charm. Her husband is popular and attractive as she is, in his own way, and the three children are beauties—a girl of 13 and boys of 11 and 4. The Wilcoxes recently have bought a beautiful place on Long Island and Fred is progressing steadily toward fame and fortune. The nicest neighboring families have taken up the Wilcoxes with great enthusiasm, so what is the trouble?

The trouble is that Norma and Fred never were married. Fred had a living wife when he and Norma first fell in love. They were 15 years younger then, penniless and adventurous, and they took the law into their own hands. Now Fred's wife is dead, but he won't consent to a marriage ceremony. He says, which is true, that his name would make the thing news and he will not have his children marked by illegitimacy. His advice is "Forget it."

No one knows this except myself, Norma, Fred and Fred's aristocratic mother, who never has liked Norma. She intends to leave her fortune to the daughter of Fred's first marriage. Norma, therefore, knows that when the older woman dies, the story must come out. She

... Fred's aristocratic mother ...

RAINBOW CHASERS

The subject of Miss Norris' discussion is rainbow chasers—people who claim they would be perfectly happy if. That small, two-letter word is dynamite—laden with connotations.

Like a weary hiker who has surmounted a steep hill only to be confronted by a series of more difficult inclines, these people are anticipating the day when their last obstacle will be behind them. They are certain that the day will arrive sometime despite the admonitions and warnings of wiser people who have preceded them.

Norma, who is typical of the multitudes who are blindly searching for the unattainable rainbow, writes Miss Norris that she would be supremely happy if her common-law husband would marry her. She has money, social position, children, a beautiful home and limitless luxuries but feels that she is still lacking something.

If Fred would legally marry her, Norma thinks she would be assured of security since Fred would not be as apt to discard her for another woman. Not only that but deep down in his heart Fred would respect and cherish her more.

The situation is a difficult one but Norma can be assured that once her present problem is solved others will spring up to take its place for the problems of life are endless.

knows that fascinating women are paying court to Fred in his new successes. She knows that should they separate, her three children would be hers alone, but she doesn't want that. She doesn't want the children to live apart with her somewhere, on an allowance that would be merely charity on Fred's part.

She's not really afraid of Fred's leaving her. She knows that even if the affair was a nine-day wonder, it wouldn't hold the public interest forever. But she's uncomfortable.

When she told me the story two years ago she said she couldn't resign herself to accept the situation. Her mother-in-law naturally has no respect for her, she said. She doesn't think Fred has, deep in his heart. When she says to him that there are quiet places where he and she could be married without publicity, he brushes the whole matter off unconcernedly. She has her furs, home, opera box, children and everything else she wants, hasn't she? For the rest, "forget it."

"When I get tired of you, I'll let you know," Fred tells her.

"Every time I fancy I'm less pretty or popular," writes Norma, "or Fred spends more than three minutes talking to some new woman, I get nervous and can't sleep. And nobody knows and nobody sympathizes and everyone thinks I'm the luckiest woman in the world. Is there any easy way out of a mess like this?"

What I wrote her is between Norma and me. It was a way out. But not an easy one. There is no easy way out.

Women Excel in Murder

CHICAGO.—Take it from the Illinois Police association, women get away with murder.

In its official journal, the association said women are harder to prosecute for slaying than men.

"Occasionally, a woman goes to jail for a killing," the article said, "but not too often. The electric chair seems destined to be used only by male customers. Illinois juries don't favor it for women."

Most women slayers get short terms in asylums or acquittals.

R-H COTTON DUST

Gives excellent control of thrips, tarnished plant bugs and flea hoppers when dusted early and permits cotton to hold early fruit and set an early crop. In Bollweevil control, R-H Dust has been found to give a high degree of kill of Bollweevils within cotton squares, in addition to the kill of adult Bollweevils.

R-H Dust has proven to be very effective for the control of the bollworm, army worm, web worm, grape colaspis, ants, bean leaf beetle and grasshoppers.

R-H Dust has a very low toxicity to warm-blooded animals. R-H Dust is very economical in cost per pound as measured by all season control.

R-H Dust does not burn or adversely affect foliage on any of the common farm crops.

PREVENTIVE TREATMENT IS MORE VALUABLE THAN APPLICATION AFTER HEAVY INFESTATION.

Can Black-Draught Help Physical Fatigue?

Yes, Black-Draught may help physical fatigue if the only reason you have that listless feeling is because of constipation. Black-Draught, the friendly laxative, is usually prompt and thorough when taken as directed. It costs only a penny or less a dose. That's why it has been a best-seller with four generations. If you are troubled with such symptoms as loss of appetite, headache, upset stomach, flatulence, physical fatigue, sleeplessness, mental haziness, bad breath — and if these symptoms are due only to constipation — then see what Black-Draught may do for you. Subject—The Glory of God.
Text—"The whole earth is full of his glory." Isaiah 6:3b
The glory of God is seen in the Bible narratives. In creation, on Mt. Sinai, and in the Transfiguration. His glory is also seen about us today; in nature and in art and literature.
Then why should not man be full of the glory of God and manifest forth that glory? And why cannot we see the glory of God all about us?

Is it because our eyes are blurred, "Having eyes we cannot see." When I drive with colored glasses it looks cloudy and gloomy. Remove the glasses and the sun is shining brightly. "Two men look through the self same bars, one sees mud and the other see stars." What do you see when you look out the window?

The meaning of life is determined not so much by what life brings to us as by the attitude we bring to life; not so much by what happens is conditioned largely by our fundamental philosophy of life and our habit of visualization.

(Mrs. Browning wrote, "Earth's crammed with heaven and every common bush afire with God; he who sees takes off his shoes the rest sit around and eat blackberries." Ah, there's the rub.)
Jesus said, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." The whole earth is full of God's glory and as we develop in spir-

Rev. Smith Gives Summary of Sermon Brought Sunday

Rev. Smith, pastor of the local Church of the Nazarene, spoke on the subject, "Calling of the Saints Sunday Morning." First thought was given to the fact that we are called to be saints. Paul mentioned in I Cor. 1:2, that they were called to be saints. The pastor brought out that the calling to be a saint exceeded everything else. The preacher might reach heights in this life, but he should always be a bigger Christian than he was a preacher. The same goes for the other callings of life.

Bro. Smith also mentioned that we are called unto God's kingdom and glory. Paul says, I Thes. 2:12, "That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory."

It is a wonderful thing that the Christians are given the privileges of living under a new sovereign: in a new kingdom. He mentioned in the message that we walk worthy. It is good that a man can be qualified by the grace and righteousness of Christ to be worthy. Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son."

The pastor told that we were called to obtain the glory. Paul said, "To the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ." 2 Thess. 2:14 Not our glory, but His. The angels announced, "Glory to God in the highest." The Model prayer says, "Thine is the glory." The scripture in Titus about the glorious appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. And then we were asked if we were letting Him have the glory.

Bro. Scott Brings a Talk on "Rise and Let Us Be Going"

Subject—Rise and Let Us Be Going. Scripture Reading Matt. 26:46, Luke 22:46.

Jesus assembled with the Apostles on Thursday evening before His betrayal to eat the Passover feast. Following the feast, Our Lord instituted the Lord's Supper. After singing a hymn they went out to the Garden. Jesus left eight of the Apostles in one place, took Peter, James and John a little further and left them as He went forth to pray. He prayed and returned to them and found them asleep. He went back and prayed again and returned to find them asleep a second time. The third time when He returned he said, "Arise, and let us be going."

Christians today must ever be on their guard against sleeping. First, I Cor. 9:27; I Cor. 10:12; show us danger of not being awake to the power of Satan. Second, sleeping Christians is always a danger to the church. Examples: Businessmen go broke when the manager is not awake. The church went into apostasy during the dark ages because the members were not awake to the dangers about it. The church is asleep as the individual members are asleep.

The causes of the church being asleep today are: 1. Weakness of the flesh, (Matt. 26:41.) 2. Ignor-

lance. (I Cor. 15:34.) 3. Failure to worship. (I Cor. 11:30; Heb. 10:25-27.) 4. Worldly attractions. (I Jno. 2:15-16.) 5. Desire for popularity. (Jas. 4:4.) 6. Self-satisfaction. (Rev. 3:14-18.)

It is time we awakened to our responsibilities. (Rom. 13:11; Dan. 6:16). With Christ, let us say, "Arise and let us be going."

TELEVISION COMMERCIALS

It strikes this department that the TV (television to you) commercial is tough on the great unseen and unspit audience. It gives you not only the salestalk but close-ups of the product. It throws the book, bottle, tin, can, carton, container and crate at you.

Take your radio straight and you get a talk on shortening, but take it by video and you get television views of the bread, cake and pies, profile, full view and sliced. You see the hair tonic in the photogenic bottle; the cigarette comes bouncing into the living room alive and dropping the ashes.

To hear about a cake of soap is one thing; to have to watch it as it takes form is another. Cereals, stogies and salad oils are not so hard when heard, but there is a question about them as a movie screen double feature.

There was this to be said about the old-fashioned radio: You could imagine the announcer was easy on the eyes. It was easier to close your ears than your eyes. If we went to the movies and the big scene was held up by a few special shots of a can of lard, a nutbar factory or a close-up of a chocolate layer cake, view from all angles, we would squawk.

Elmer Twitchell is especially hostile. "I object to my home being made a showroom for the assorted products of American industry," he declares. "Why should my den be converted into a commercial exposition hall and my parlor made a sales manager's delight?"

"TV is young and a seventh wonder. Its sheer wizardry is appealing. I appreciate being able to get pictures via the airways with a mere twisting of the dials, but I call for a little toning down of the illustrated commercials. When the liver pill, the frankfurter, the gasoline and the tooth paste were heard and not seen, it pleased me better.

"Nothing exasperates me more than to struggle with the dials to bring in a ball game clearly and get a lovely movie of a carton of soap flakes. When I want to see a prize fight I want a picture of the pugilists, not the Lever brothers. This emphasis on commercials by video comes at a time when the radio industry claims to have come out for shorter commercials. What goes?"

Mrs. Twitchell tells us that Elmer is a wreck over television anyhow. (He lives in the suburbs where he has to have an outside aerial of such size it makes his bungalow look like a naval station, she says. And Elmer insists that planes mistake his house for a beacon.)

"But the illustrated commercials are what unnerve him," says Mrs. Twitchell. "Me? Well, a jingle is certainly harder on the nerves when I see the perpetrators."

VANISHING AMERICANISMS:

"We can rent a rowboat all day for a dollar."
"He doesn't make much money but he never complains."
"Here's a boy to mow the lawn for 50 cents."
"Got two cents for a stamp?"
"I know where you can get a good used car cheap."
"Here's a nickel; buy yourself an ice cream cone."

"Go ahead and order anything you want; the check here won't be much."
Siamese gunmen stole two million dollars of international gold the other day. A million for each twin.

HOUSING SOLUTION
There was an old woman
She lived in a shoe . . .
She had a better house
Than I have or you.

"Twas just so much footwear
A boot, so to speak,
But it held up okay,
And the thing didn't leak."

Elmer Twitchell says he hears that at that tavern to be run by Mrs. Roosevelt and Elliott you can put a nickel in the juke box and get back 20 cents, a musical recording, a sandwich, and somebody else's coat and hat.

West Texas C. of C. Is Seeking Solution Of Mexican Seasonal Labor Problem

Solution of the Mexican seasonal labor problem in Hamlin area and other Texas cities is seen in a request made this week by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Latin-American Commission in Abilene to the Texas Good Neighbor Commission in seeking executive action by the governor.

This action would include a proclamation by the governor, calling on all mayors and Chambers of Commerce in every town in Texas to use their efforts to prevent discrimination. The WTCC group also would have the governor issue executive orders to the Texas Employment Commission to exercise greater control over movement of the Mexican workers, to prevent exploiting by "jeffes" and otherwise causing the overloads on communities unprepared for the influx of hordes of seasonal workers.

This plan was presented to Thomas L. Sutherland at San Angelo by Claude Meadows Sr., chairman of the WTCC group, after his preparation by General Manager D. A. Bandeen of Abilene. For more than month the WTCC has been getting letters from city and Chamber of Commerce officials in West Texas, outlining steps taken to provide accommodations. It was pointed out that these letters are from the highest official and civic authorities and speak with authority in their promises.

Sutherland has been asked to transmit the letters to the Mexican government in an attempt to have lifted the ban against importation of Mexican workers.

The following points were made in the presentation:

- 1.—That there are organized activities in every community to eliminate racial discrimination.
- 2.—That there are organized activities to provide necessary temporary and permanent housing, eating and entertainment facilities and many such facilities have already been extended.
- 3.—That educational and religious advantages are offered without discrimination.
- 4.—That there is a parity in compensation, and Mexican workers are paid on the same basis as any others for the same type of work, and the wage scale in West Texas is considerably higher than in Mexico.

"On the basis of these pledges, we respectfully request that the Good Neighbor Commission of the State of Texas:

- 1.—Urge the Governor of Texas to issue an official proclamation calling upon all City, County and Chamber of Commerce officials of Texas to take necessary steps to see that no discrimination exists in the treatment of migratory workers coming from Mexico.

- 2.—Urge the Governor by executive order to request the fullest cooperation of all state agencies, such as the Texas Employment Commission, to exercise their every legal power to prevent discriminations and to establish a definite good neighbor practice.

"It is further recommended that copies of these proclamations and executive orders be transmitted through the Texas Good Neighbor Commission to the proper authori-

Attention Tax Payers

The Tax Record of Two Men

PAT BULLOCK

Now a member of the State Senate and a candidate for re-election to a SECOND full term.

In 1941, Pat Bullock (Then a member of the House of Representatives) Co-authored and helped pass the Bill which increased the tax on OIL, GAS and SULPHUR. This was to pay Old Age Assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the needy blind and to finance teacher retirement.

Since the passage of this Senator Bullock has successfully opposed all tax bills of every kind. He is especially opposed to a SALES TAX.

With a cash surplus of Ninety Million dollars anticipated in the General Revenue Fund for the next session of the Legislature PAT BULLOCK is opposed to any new taxes.

HARLEY SADLER

Now a member of the House of Representatives and a candidate for the Senate.

At the last session of the Legislature Harley Sadler introduced House Bill No. 634 which levied the following taxes:

- 1.—The Sadler Bill levied a SALES TAX on all soft drinks whether served at the fountain or in bottles.

- 2.—The Sadler Bill levied a SALES TAX on TIMBER, LIME, SAND, SHELL, GRAVEL and LIMESTONE, or building stone. (This would have increased the cost of building homes which are so badly needed.)

- 3.—The Sadler tax Bill would have levied a SALES TAX on Gypsum from which WALL BOARD and other building materials are made.
- 4.—At the previous session of the Legislature Harley Sadler introduced House Bill No. 174 which levied a SALES TAX on Gasoline used in Farm Tractors. (This would amount to the same thing as taxing a bushel of oats or other horse and mule feed.)

These original Bills are on file in the Secretary of State's Office in Austin just as they were introduced by Mr. Sadler. A copy of these Bills by Harley Sadler, certified by the Secretary of State, has been mailed to each County Judge in the 24th Senatorial District. We suggest that you examine these Bills to verify the truth of the above statements.

The issue between these two candidates is clear. Senator Bullock opposes additional taxes. Mr. Sadler tried to tax the necessities of life.

(This ad paid for by taxpayers of the 24th Senatorial District who are opposed to further burdening the people with new taxes so long as there is a vast surplus in the State Treasury with which to meet the needs of our state.)

It won't work...by itself.

It takes a lot more than a telephone instrument to give you telephone service.

Before a telephone will work it must be connected by a pair of wires from your home all the way to the switching equipment in the central office.

Telephone wire and cable are still scarce compared with the large amounts we need. But we are placing and splicing new cable as fast as we can get it.

In some places, there isn't room for more telephone connections on the switchboards. To get more room, we are adding new equipment—faster than ever before.

Despite shortages, we would be caught up by now if it was not for the extremely large number of new applications for service. They pour in at a rate of 50,000 a month in the Southwest, and that tremendous demand has kept us from eliminating the wait for telephone service in most places.

It is still an uphill pull, but we are gaining on it, and we are grateful for your patience and understanding.

Smith-Doxey Classification Applications Due

Hamlin and other Texas cotton farmers who want to receive classification and market news service on their 1948 crop should get their group applications in within a few days a report states.

Deadline date for the eastern part of the state is August 1 and for the western part August 15. J. L. McCollum, manager of Southwest area cotton branch, USDA's Production and Marketing Administration, Dallas, has announced.

August 1 deadline takes in all counties lying entirely or for the most part east of the 100th Meridian and the August 15 closing date all counties lying entirely or for the most part west of the 100th Meridian.

Both services are provided with out charge under the Smith-Doxey Act to organized cotton improvement groups.

Group applications may be filed at the Dallas cotton office, 1104 South Eway, or at PMA's classification office at Abilene.

Texas had more than 1,000 organized improvement groups last year consisting of nearly 100,000 farmers who had over 1,500,000 bales classed. This represents about one-half of the 1947 crop, McCollum concluded.

Huge Outlays Slated in County for Repairs

Jones County non-farm homes will spend an estimated $427,000 in repairing and modernizing according to a report from a building council survey.

That sum will be expended largely on painting, carpentry work, roofing repairs and plumbing, the report revealed.

“Greater availability of building materials will make possible a record amount of home improvement throughout the nation this year,” declared Malcolm Schweiker, chairman of the council's residential construction committee.

About 30 of every 100 homes in Texas will be painted, either inside or out, during 1948 and 17 will have roofs repaired or replaced, according to the report. Seven will have plumbing overhauled, bathrooms tiled or showers installed and six will have carpentry work done, the report revealed.

“To meet demands for materials for both new homes and home repairs, production has been stepped up in practically every type of material,” he said. The output of ceramic tile for bathrooms and kitchens is at the highest rate in history.

Throughout the nation between $2,600,000,000 and $3,300,000,000 is to be spent this year on home repair according to the report. This is believed the largest amount ever expended for such work.

Veterans Must Pay Insurance Due Before August 1 Deadline

Robert W. Sisson VA regional manager, reminded Hamlin veterans early this week that July 31 is the last day for reinstatement of lapsed National Service Life Insurance on a “comparative health” basis.

Before August 1, an eligible veteran may reinstate any amount of term insurance—from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500—regardless of the length of time it has been lapsed, and usually without a physical examination. He need only fill out a simple application form, in which he certifies that his health is as good as when the policy lapsed, and pay premiums for two months.

The privilege of reinstating on this basis will be available after July 31 only to veterans whose policies have been lapsed for less than three months. Where the period of lapse is three months or longer, the veteran will be required to take a physical examination and qualify as an insurable risk, the VA regional manager concluded.

WHY LABOR BOSSES ENDORSE THE OPPONENT OF...
JUDGE JOHN A. RAWLINS

Candidate for Associate Justice Supreme Court of Texas

JUDGE JOHN A. RAWLINS

★ It is recorded May 9, 1945, in 188 S.W. Reporter 2d series, page 276, that James P. Hart, opponent of Judge Rawlins, was one of the attorneys for the labor unions in their unsuccessful and ill-advised attempt to enjoin the State Officials from enforcing the Texas law regulating labor unions, which was passed with the view of protecting public interest.

★ The Appellate Court, in upholding the law forbidding the unions from collecting work permit fees from non-union employees, reorganized the policy expressed by the Legislature in the preamble to the Act “The right to work is the right to live.”

★ Judge John Rawlins is under no obligation to either labor or capital. He is now completing 20 years of service as a State Trial Judge. He is a family man, a World War veteran, and a church worker. He has the endorsement of the Dallas Bar Association and is interested only in administering the law fairly and impartially in the interest of the public at large. He is a graduate of Texas University and Texas Christian University.

Hot Foot in Taproom Costs Two Pranksters $10,000

SALEM, N. J. — A taproom "hot foot" cost two Salem men $10,000.

A jury in Salem county court returned the $10,000 verdict against George Kernan, 38, and Ralph Craig, 36, who were charged by Clair Scott, 44, with giving him a "hot foot" while he dozed off.

Scott contended in the damage suit that his stockings and trousers became aflame and his right leg was burned.

Scott was hospitalized several months and his leg still requires treatment, he contended. The trial was delayed for several years because Kernan and Craig were in the military service.

Malik (grinning): "The first word we teach them is 'nyet'."

Cattlemen Trap Buzzards That Eat Live Calves

LAKE CHARLES, LA.—Cattlemen in southwest Louisiana are warring on a ravenous flock of buzzards which has been passing up carcasses for living animals.

The buzzards have been attacking and killing all kinds of livestock, but mostly newly born calves.

W. L. Calwell, who lives near Lake Charles, reported the flying scavengers had killed 20 of his calves in a year and seven in one week.

John E. Jackson, Calcasieu Parish agent, has told farmers to set up poultry wire traps in their large pastures, using a carcass and dead buzzard as a decoy.

He said one farmer near Baton Rouge, La., had trapped and killed 8,500 buzzards in one season by using this method.

In most cases, the cattlemen reported, a flock of about 300 buzzards would swoop down and attack a helpless newly born calf.

Jonathan, Loyal Friend

Lesson for July 25, 1948

WE might well term this a lesson on the facets of friendship. Rarely will one come upon such a splendid example of friendship in all literature. Coleridge put it well when he wrote, "Friendship is a sheltering tree." Diogenes Laertius, writing on Aristotle, says, "He was once asked what a friend is, and his answer was, 'One soul abiding in two bodies'."

Such was the friendship of Jonathan and David—a sheltering tree—one soul abiding in two bodies. Although Jonathan's father attempted at least ten times to kill David, Jonathan was drawn the closer to David, with whose soul his was knit.

The record of this friendship is found in our scripture and devotional readings for the lesson, with the golden text from Proverbs 17:17, "A friend loveth at all times."

A PRINCE SHARES WITH A SHEPHERD

JONATHAN was the crown prince apparent. David was a shepherd boy. Saul expected to place Jonathan on the throne. God had selected David.

Jonathan would, no doubt, have made a better king than Saul, his father but he had no desire to be king when he discovered the kingly qualities in his friend, David. Not once did Jonathan ever indicate any disappointment in not becoming king.

JONATHAN STANDS UP FOR HIS FRIEND

WHEN Saul openly plotted the death of David, Jonathan begged his father to reconsider his course and spare the life of the man who had killed Goliath and had proved himself the valiant friend of Saul. This was the final test of Jonathan's sacrificial love for David.

He might have remained silent, thus aiding in the death of the one man who stood between him and the throne. But Jonathan was made of the stout texture which counts no sacrifice too dear for a friend. He was willing to stand up and be counted when it meant that he would not become king. Thus we see that true friendship is not always easy. It usually is very costly, but it pays big dividends in the coin of eternal wealth.

FRIENDSHIP THAT COSTS

AND like as Jonathan stood up and witnessed his lasting friendship for David, at a very great cost, so are we today summoned to this ennobling type of friendship for Christ. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you," he once said.

Young people find it rather costly to be loyal friends of Christ today. There are many siren voices that invite young people to take the low road—social drinking, gambling, devices of one sort and another, satisfaction of sensual desires—but the true friend of Christ will withstand these voices, choosing rather the high road of Christian gentlemen.

SACRIFICIAL FRIENDSHIP

"FRIENDSHIP is the loveliest flower in the garden of humanity," according to my cherished friend, Dr. Hight C. Moore. I would add this thought—true friendship flowers in the garden of humanity, but it finds its life in the Garden of God's Perfect Eden.

I have not known one single friendship that has impressed me that did not stem from above. "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" And the only cement that will hold human hearts together—one soul in two bodies—is the grace of God.

"Friendship is as God, who gives and asks no payment," said Richard Hovey, and not until the human will is yielded to the will of God, even as was the will of Jonathan, can sacrificial friendship come to flower and to harvest.

Magic Ministry

A club of ministers who use magic to illustrate religious lessons has been formed under the name of "Magi-Ministers." Most of the members practice amateur magic. One of their favorite tricks is the passing of a handkerchief through a tube marked "Church" which changes its color from black to white, illustrating how a blackened soul may be cleansed of sin.

Can Your Soups and Relishes Now

(See recipes below)

Canning Tactics

ISN'T IT CONVENIENT to have home-canned foods in good supply before the garden runs out? Yes, you may have been putting up fruits and vegetables as well as some of the early jams, jellies and preserves, but how about some of those extras that help tide you through the winter?

There are a variety of home-canned soups which are simply grand when lunch time rolls around on a snowy day. And, of course, there are pickles and relishes that are always handy for adding zest to sandwich suppers or for rounding out the meat course.

IF YOU LIKE a good, well-seasoned tomato soup, here is an easy way to put up one. This is a small-sized recipe, but it is concentrated so it will go a long way after you heat it and add milk or water. Of course, the recipe can be multiplied.

Concentrated Tomato Soup (Makes 2 quarts)

- 12 pounds tomatoes
- 3 small bay leaves
- 12 whole cloves
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar

Choose firm, red ripe tomatoes. Wash and remove cores; then place in a large preserving kettle. Add bay leaves and heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Put through sieve or food mill, return to kettle and simmer until of the consistency of gravy. Tie cloves in a cheesecloth bag, and add during last five minutes of cooking time. Remove cloves and add salt. Pour into hot sterile jars, place on lids and simmer for five minutes in a boiling water bath.

IF YOU LIKE to can meats, here are some ways which are delicious for preparing them:

Veal in Tomato Sauce (Makes 4 quarts)

- 2 1/4 quarts tomatoes
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
- 6 pounds boneless veal, cut for stew

Peel tomatoes, remove cores and slice thin before measuring. Or use one and one-half quarts cooked or canned tomatoes. Mix tomatoes with celery, salt, sugar and pepper; heat to boiling and cook rapidly for five minutes. Add veal, cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Pack into clean hot jars and fill to within one-half inch of top. Adjust lids according to manufacturers' directions. Process 75 minutes for pints, 90 minutes for quarts at 10 pounds pressure.

Beef Stew (Makes 4 quarts)

- 10 pounds beef
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 2 tablespoons salt

Use either chuck or rump of beef. Trim off excess fat and weigh meat after trimming. Wipe with damp cloth and cut into pieces to fit jars. Melt shortening and brown meat in skillet. When well browned add just enough water to cover, heating until all browned residue from skillet is dissolved to make a rich gravy. Pack meat into clean hot jars to within one inch of the top. Add one and one-half teaspoons salt to each quart. Adjust lids. Process 75 minutes for pints, 90 minutes for quarts at 10 pounds pressure.

LYNN SAYS: Housekeeping Is Easy With These Hints

Nail holes on walls where pictures have hung can be filled with a mixture of melted glue and extra fine sawdust. Pack this into the hole tightly before you paint your walls.

Keep waxed paper or towels handy in your kitchen for those times when you do peeling and measuring jobs. These can be folded up after use and you will have a clean table surface.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Salmon Salad in Cabbage Cups
- Potato Chips Assorted Pickles
- Molded Pear Salad Bran Muffins
- Coconut Cream Pie Beverage

ANY VEGETABLES you like may be used in a soup combination, but the processing should be done in a pressure cooker for vegetables unlike tomatoes are a non-acid food and need more processing.

If the garden is coming to the end of its yield, here's a good batch of soup that can be put up from it:

End-of-Garden Soup (Makes 3 quarts)

- 2 parsnips, peeled
- 2 medium-sized potatoes
- 4 carrots, scraped
- 2 cups quartered, peeled tomatoes
- 2 bunches celery, cut
- 1 sweet red pepper, trimmed and cut in strips
- 1/4 pound spinach, washed and shredded
- 1 cup cut green beans
- 2 quarts water

Clean all vegetables thoroughly before preparing. Cut in rather small pieces. Place in soup kettle, add water and simmer for two to three minutes. Pack while hot into clean jars; add one teaspoon salt to each quart. Adjust lids; process in pressure cooker, 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for pints, or 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for quarts.

Chili Sauce (Makes 4 pints)

- 10 tomatoes
- 1 quart chopped sweet red peppers
- 1 cup finely chopped white onions
- 1 hot red pepper, chopped
- 1 quart sugar
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 5 cups vinegar
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground cloves

Scald tomatoes, remove skins and cores. Clean and chop remaining vegetables. Heat to boiling in a large kettle and cook vigorously for one and one-half hours. Add spices tied in two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth and cook one-half hour longer until the mixture is thickened. Remove spice bag. Pour into hot sterile jars and seal immediately.

Chunk Pickles (Makes 6 pints)

- 6 pounds large cucumbers
- 3 1/4 cups salt
- 3 quarts water
- 2 tablespoons alum
- 1 quart vinegar
- 8 cups sugar
- 2 1/2-inch sticks cinnamon
- 2 blades mace
- 1 tablespoon whole cloves

Wash cucumbers; place in stone crock or jar; cover with cold brine made of salt and water; let stand two weeks. Remove cucumbers from brine, wash, trim off stem ends and cut crosswise into one-inch pieces. Cover with cold water; add alum; let stand overnight. Drain; wash well. Combine remaining ingredients and bring them to a boil. Pour immediately over cucumber chunks. Repeat the process for three mornings, reheating the syrup every time. On the fourth morning, place cucumbers in jars and pour hot syrup over them. Seal at once.

IF PARAMOUNT doesn't shoot the works and build John Lund into one of our foremost male stars, somebody is willfully blind. A most engaging young man to talk with, he is inclined to underrate his talents, though they were marked enough to rate stardom for him in his second picture, "Perils of Pauline." He recently finished his fifth film, "The Tatlock Millions," and does some of his best work in his fourth, "A Foreign Affair." Success on the stage preceded Hollywood for him. Before that he wrote and sold radio shows and night club acts—and he's been a ditch digger, a soda jerk, and a carpenter in his time.

In the Ingrid Bergman film, "Joan of Arc" you'll see Jose Ferrer, as the Dauphin of France, steal a kiss from a lady in waiting during a game of croquet. Nobody on the set at the time that scene was filmed suspected that romance was blooming. They learned it only recently when Ferrer and the lady in waiting, Phyllis Hill, were married in Greenwich, Conn.

George Raft and other members of the cast of "Outpost of Morocco" spent several months abroad with production and camera crews, so that the picture would be really authentic. Now they have settled down in Hollywood, with Robert Florey directing, to make interior sequences to match up with the location shots. United Artists will release.

Anne Jeffreys, who made her film debut in westerns before winning dramatic and operatic fame on Broadway, is back on the range again as one of the five stars in RKO's "Return of the Bad Man," Randolph Scott's new film.

Alan Dale, baritone of CBS' "Sing It Again," is where he is because he took a dare. When he was 16 he passed an open air cafe at Coney Island with a friend. Hearing a singer lose in her effort to keep up with the orchestra, the friend suggested that Alan could do better, dared him to try it. You'll see him in a Columbia short before long.

Jane Wyman's dramatic ability has in the past won her an Academy Award nomination. The award may come as a result of her being chosen for the starring role in "Serenade," the Michael Curtiz production with Jerry Wald producing. That's the combination which brought Joan Crawford an Oscar in "Mildred Pierce." A visit to Mexico will prepare Jane for the role.

After the "Stop the Music" debut, Jack McCoy, music publisher, hummed the "mystery tune" ("A Vision of Salome") to his staff arrangers. He couldn't identify it, nor could they. Nor could he find anyone who could. Not until it was recognized by the lucky contestant did McCoy learn that his firm is the publisher of the selection!

Odds and Ends . . . Claudia Morgan, of "Right to Happiness," was cured of superstition when her dressing room mirror broke the night of her stage debut, yet she and the play were both hits. . . After making "A Foreign Affair" after three years' absence from films, Jean Arthur says she won't wait too long before making another picture. . . Since it was announced that Virginia Mayo would star as a bathing beauty in "The Girl from Jones Beach" she has received 71 bathing suits. . . Jack Carson's new ranch is paying off: in one week he sold 600 home-grown broilers for two dollars apiece.

"Amos 'n' Andy" are back in Hollywood and hard at work on scripts for the 1948-49 series. Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, who play the famous characters, promise a complete new deal, with bigger parts for Amos.

John Ford wants people to remember that he picked John Agar for "Fort Apache" before he knew that Mrs. Shirley Temple Agar was available—not because, to get Shirley, he had to sign up her husband also.

Jay Walking Dangerous
That short distance to the corner goes a long way toward keeping people alive. American pedestrians are warned by safety experts striving to reduce the huge annual traffic death toll by curbing unsafe pedestrian acts. Approximately 11,000 persons are run down and killed by motor vehicles every year—and half of them are crossing streets and rural roads between intersections. Coming from behind parked cars and crossing the street at places other than designated crosswalks are the most dangerous things the man on foot can do in traffic, according to the accident prevention department, Association of Casualty and Surety companies. Jaywalking killed over 3,200 and injured 51,000 pedestrians in this country in 1947, the department pointed out. Walking in the roadway and crossing against the traffic signal are the next most important reasons why so many persons lose their lives or are crippled for life.

POT-SHOTS FROM McCAULLEY

GEORGE DARDEN

Omitted From Last Week.

Cpl. Wilburn Faulkenberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Faulkenberry was buried in the McCaulley Cemetery last Thursday after a Military Funeral service at the McCaulley Baptist Church and at the graveside. He was 22 years of age at the time of death and was killed in action October 17, 1944 in New Guinea. He was an anti-aircraft gunner and was killed when a enemy plane crashed into his gun position. His parents received the Purple Heart, awarded him posthumously January 15, 1945. Survivors are his parents, two sisters; Mrs. John Battle of Alder, Washington, Mrs. J. C. Kinsey of Crane; and one brother, LeRoy who is in the Army Air Corps and stationed at Camp Hood, Wilburn or "Dub" as he was known by friends in this community, where he was reared, attended the McCaulley High School and grew up on the farm in this community. The funeral service was one of the most impressive services seen in these parts. Rev. Posey, pastor of the Hamlin First Baptist Church conducted the service at the church and the service at the graveside was conducted by a Chaplain and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the Hamlin Post No. 6014. Our deepest sympathy to the Faulkenberry family.

Worst Congress in modern history has adjourned. It did so in contempt for the welfare of the American people. It laughed at a rising crisis, thumbed its nose at the public school system, weakened social security, encouraged inflation and generally showed itself to be the tool of big corporations and highly paid lobbyists. Congress took care of its own housing problems in Washington while it opened rent control for the nation as a whole. It encased its own pay 50 per cent while refusing to increase wages of people earning only $16 per week. It reduced them for the poor. Congress shuddered at the public health bill ed taxes for the rich and increased social security, encouraged inflation and generally showed itself to be the tool of big corporations and highly paid lobbyists. Congress took care of its own housing problems in Washington while it opened rent control for the nation as a whole. Congress shuddered at the public health bill ed taxes for the rich and increased social security, encouraged inflation and generally showed itself to be the tool of big corporations and highly paid lobbyists.

Congress also shuddered at the proposal to help public schools by appropriating $300,000,000. This money would provide schooling for 2,000,000 American children who have had none at all. They are condemned to live in illiteracy. Yet Congress appropriated $265,000,000 for tobacco and liquor for destitute Europeans. Congress said that federal aid for the public schools was Communistic. Does Congress think it can kill Communism by getting Europe drunk and America ignorant? The Republican Congress fails to shine, not even in the moonlight. It just stinks and stinks! Surely, we people, will not think of voting Republican ticket no matter who the Democratic nominee for President. Can we forget the "Hoover days" when folks went hungry? Didn't the "New Deal with Roosevelt stop the "black-eyed peas" for breakfast? And when we go to the polls the 24th let's not forget to scratch coffee-drinking, calculating Coke who opened FDR on every turn of the wheel.—Yours, George.

Greatest display of neighborly friendship and hospitality for friends in need gathered Thursday on the farms of the late D. M. Maberry when 26 tractors, their drivers and 60 hoe hands met and worked out 470 acres for the Maberry family. The ladies of the community which numbered about 50 prepared one of the most lovely noon day lunches seen in these parts. It was a great day, doing unto others as you would have them do unto you in the same circumstances. No greater community exists where neighbors love one another and are always more than willing to sacrifice if need be to help a friend. Yes, the folks who turned out to work out the crop of a friend will surely reap their reward in the next world. And too, we know that no one could appreciate the spirit more than the Maberry family. And in behalf of Mrs. Maberry and her children we take this method of thanking each and everyone who so generously gave their time and work. The Sylvester Coop Association who filled the tractors with free gas at noon also have the deepest appreciation from the farmers and the Maberry family. Yes, it's good to live in community-like McCaulley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Callaway went to Lamesa last week-end to attend the funeral of a grand-daughter who died suddenly.

Mrs. George Bond from Lubbock and Mrs. Howard Davidson and children from Lubbock and James Woods from Sweetwater visited parents and other relatives in this community last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Darden attended the funeral of Tommie Murdock, a cousin, in Jayton last Saturday. Murdock, a rancher, in Hamilton County died in a Temple hospital the 15th.

The Church of Christ meeting began Sunday in McCaulley and you are cordially invited to attend the services.

This column is supporting Lyndon Johnson for the Senate for several reasons: First, Johnson is young enough and full of energy all of which it takes to get the job done. Second: He is a world war veteran and knows the need of our country. Third: He stopped in the halls of Congress the government's attitude in attacking and dismantling Army camps which we are likely to need any minute as the Russian Bear is snapping at our heels. Yep, Ole' calculating Coke is too old, has no ambition with the exception of just having the honor of being a member of the Senate. He should retire to his ranch near Junction and smoke his pipe and dream what he had done as Governor. That is, he takes the credit where by the legislature is rightly due all the credit.

This column is supporting Harley Sadler. We have many reasons for that. We do think his opponent is a good man and a good representative but, a little new blood in the Senate won't hurt a thing.

Ted Abbott has been appointed election judge for McCaulley Saturday. Come on out and vote folks, it's your duty.

Mrs. Dan Maberry left for Lamesa Sunday for a visit with children and families in that city.

W. E. (Bill) Maberry from Lamesa was visiting relatives and friends in McCaulley last week.

Army, Air Force Desire High Type Young Applicants

Both the Department of the Army and Air Force are doing their utmost to procure the high-career soldiers or airmen accorded possible type of young men as to a report to Hamlin youths from Wayne Hall, Captain AF Station, Abilene.

Educational standards have been established by these two departments so as to raise the caliber of the regular servicemen. These standards have been rather high, especially in the case of the Air Force, which until the enactment of recent legislation nearly approached its authorized strength of enlisted men.

Many of the men making up this group were barely able to make the grade for enlistment academically, thus creating an imbalance in the highly technical Air Force of those men who were capable of receiving and imparting information to others with a fair degree of efficiency, and those who qualify only for general duty.

A short time ago the Air Force devised a means of augmenting enlistments of those men so vitally needed in the training and supervision of other groups of enlistees. The system amounts to this: Any young man who has a high school education or better is permitted by written agreement with the Commanding General, Air Training Command to elect a specialized course of training from some 40 courses in professional schools offered by the Air Training Command. When his choice is made known the Command upon written application, the applicant is notified and when the course of training will begin for him and he enlists knowing that this course and its pursuit in duty will be followed during his enlistment.

Any other information on this matter may be obtained from the local recruiter at the post office in Hamlin.

Many ex-servicemen may also enlist for direct assignment in the European Theatre if he has a specific Military Occupational Specialty, and must enlist in the grade of Sgt or lower, an opportunity that has been non-existent for almost two years.

The class composition was about "Kings." One boy wrote: "The most powerful king on earth is Wor-king; the laziest, Shir-king; one of the worst kings, Smo-king; the wittiest, Jo-king; the quietest, Thin-king; the thirstiest, Drink-king; the slyest, Win-king; and the nosiest, Tal-king."

The new Roby hospital is going over big we note from a list of patients published in the paper there. Its really a nice hospital in which any county should be proud.

Mrs. Daisy Martin and children from El Paso are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davidson. Roy Henington left Monday with several boys for the Leuders encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Dean and daughter from Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Dean and daughter from Abilene are visiting in the home of parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dean in McCaulley.

Aubrey Alum Has Birthday Party at Bank's Lake Cabin

A birthday party was given for Aubrey Altum by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Altum Tuesday night at the Hamlin Lake in the F&M Bank cabin.

Games of forty-two and others were played.

Those present were: Jane Adams, Billy Maynard, Corina Burk, Betty Maynard, Joe Maynard, Donna Gayle Miller, Billy Ray Barnett, Dwain Brown, Jack Herd, June Carter, Mary Carter, Edith Ann Scott, Joe Carter, Oleta Kite, Patsy Ruth Parker, Billy Roach, Clifton Townsend, Beverly Harvey, Thee Hill, R A Boyd, Barbara Posey, Adell, Dorothy and Aubrey Altum, Mrs Posey, Mrs Harvey and Mrs Altum.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake was served after games were played.

Where They Come From. Mrs.—"Whenever I'm down in the dumps I get myself a new hat." Mr.—"I was wondering where you got them."

Stationary Object. He—"Haven't I seen your face somewhere before?" She—"I don't think so—it always sets between my ears."

Artificial Insemination Grows. There are nearly one and three-quarter million cows, making up nearly a quarter of a million dairy herds, enrolled in the artificial breeding associations in the United States.

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONERS PRECINCT NO. 1---

I take this opportunity to present to each and all of the voters of this precinct, my candidacy for this office. For the past 15 years, I have been employed by the Commissioner of this precinct as roadman and I am thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office and what it means to the citizens to have their roads kept in good condition. I have given all my time to the road work and if I am elected as your county commissioner, I will devote my entire time to the duties of the office as I know it to be a full time job. I hereby solicit your influence and vote in the election this coming Saturday.

Respectfully requested;

R. B. (BOONE) BOYD

Mr. and Mrs. He are the proud parent of a daughter, born Saturday weighing nine pounds.

Cotton Fleahopper Mighty Mice Win Is Already at Work Two Out of Three Games to Date In Jones Co. Fields

"Jones County farmers have really been busy this week slaying weeds and grass so that their crops will do well. Now something else that we are going to have to fight is the cotton fleahopper," County Agricultural Agent H. C. Stanley said Wednesday.

The cotton fleahopper is already here and is really working on the early cotton. A cross-section survey of the county was made last week and it was found that from eight to 40 fleahoppers per 100 terminal buds were present in older cotton.

Texas A. & M. College Extension Entomologists recommended that cotton be dusted with a five per cent DDT and at least 75 per cent sulphur mixture at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre when 25 fleahoppers per 100 terminal buds were found or when it is evident that small squares usually not larger than a pin head are blasted before they are set.

A farmer can check his own field for fleahoppers or fleahopper damage, it was said, by starting at one corner of the field and going diagonally across the field checking the plants for fleahoppers and small blasted squares every 20 to 30 steps. If a farmer does not know how to identify the cotton fleahopper and their cotton is not fruiting as it should the vocational agricultural teacher or County Agricultural Agent will be glad to hold a Cotton Insect Identification School on the farm where as many as 10 farmers or more will attend.

Rodeo Performers Attend at Snyder, Enter Some Contests

Several Hamlin rodeo performers attended the Snyder Rodeo on Wednesday thru Saturday of last week on many rides and the like. Wednesday night, opening night, in the Event No. 3 Senior Calf Roping, Arnold Galloway was No. 93 and he also rode again in Event No. 6 Double Mugging.

Thursday night we were alone with no performers.

Friday night there were two entrants in Event No. 3 from Hamlin; Joe Gray No. 143 and Glenn Adair No. 144 in the Senior Calf Roping. And Adair entered the Double Mugging, Event No. 6.

Saturday found four Hamlinites entering all in Event No. 3, Senior Calf Roping. Luther Marr No. 135, No. 143 and Arnold Galloway No. 93. Adair, Marr and Galloway entered the Double Mugging, Event No. 6. Joe Gray entered the Cutting Horse Contest Event No. 10. Jessie Myers also won first place in the sponsor's contest at Coleman Rodeo for one night in their rodeo, but The Herald was unable to get the full results for the whole average, perhaps we can have all the low-down for next issue.

County 4-H Girls to Attend Encampment Tuesday - Wednesday

Jones County's 4-H girls will gather for an encampment at the Swede Park north of Avoca Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Ella Dora Eoff, Patsey Cooley and Jimmanna Beale attended the District Camp at Mertzon and learned how to plan a camp. These girls will help with the camp cooking, recreation and crafts. This camp is to be educational and fun also.

Each club in the county, according to Miss Loretta Allen HD agent for Jones County, will have a stunt for the night program. Every 4-H girl should make an effort to go because she will be missing a lot of fun if she doesn't," the agent concluded.

Last Friday evening Hamlin Mighty Mice baseball team composed of youths under a program sponsored in the summer by the local VFW played the Stamford Bugs with the locals losing 13-12.

Right If She Can Do It.

"Now, Willie," said the teacher to a rather stupid pupil, "listen carefully. If I had five eggs in this basket and laid three on the table, how many eggs would I have?" "Eight," was the confident reply.

Southwest farm prices settled to generally lower trends during the past week according to a report to The Herald from the United States Department of Agriculture Production and Marketing Administration.

Cotton losses ranged from about $2.50 to $5.50 a bale for the week. Spot middling 15-16 inch closed Monday at 32.70 cents a pound at Dallas, 33.15 at Houston, 33.35 at Galveston at New Orleans.

Movement of the new crop pushed most grains lower, while yellow corn moved up three to four cents a bushel. Oats led the downward trend with a 12 cent loss to sell at 98 cents to $1. a bushel at Galveston in bulk carlots of No. 2 delivered to Texas common points Monday, and yellow corn brought $2.37½ to $2.39 1-2. No. 1 wheat brought $2.32.

Corn feeds and wheat millfeeds declined sharply. Offerings of No. 1 grade alfalfa have failed to meet demand and medium grade lots moved well. Peanuts held firm, but peanut oil weakened.

Markets for spring chickens weakened in both producing areas and consuming centers. Northwest Arkansas growers got 33 to 36 cent at the farm. Dallas and Fort Worth paid 37 to 39 cents a pound. Light receipts of hens sold firm. Most current receipts eggs held a little above support levels, with best grades higher.

Hogs receded from record high prices reached at many places last week to net losses of mainly 50 cents to $1. Top butcher hogs ranged from $28.25 to $28.75 at most Southwest markets Monday, with Denver paying $29. to $30. A spread of $21 to $24.50 brought most sows and pigs moved largely from $24 to $27.50.

Cattle advanced to new high levels at some markets early last week, but declines set in and continued through Monday for uneven net losses to slight gains. Stockers and feeders felt the late pressure least. Stocker steers an yearlings sold from $22 to $23 at Houston Monday, and from $38 down at Fort Worth. Wichita paid $24 to $27 for medium and good grades. Oklahoma City bought stocker yearlings and calves from $25 to $27.50. Kansas City took choice heifers at $27.

Spring lamb prices rose to new all time peaks last week but dropped rapidly later to close Monday largely about $2 a hundred lower for the seven days. Medium and good spring lambs sold from $25 to $28 at Fort Worth in Monday's trade. Good and choice kinds brought $28 to $29 at Oklahoma City and Wichita.

Short French combing Texas wools sold lower at $1.40 to $1.50 a clean pound.

Santa Fe Carloadings Shows Down Trend

Santa Fe System carloadings for the week ending July 17 were 30,731 as compared with 33,148 for the same week in 1947. Cars received from connections totaled 10,322 as compared with 9,495 for the same week in 1947.

Total cars moved were 41,053 as compared with 42,643 for the same week in 1947. Santa Fe handled a total of 39,275 cars in preceding week of this year.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Arabs and Jews Go Back to War As U.N. Truce Fails in Palestine; Truman OKs Farm Price Support

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FAILURE: U.N. Truce

There was no peace, but once more a sword in Palestine. The United Nations truce had failed.

As the four-week interruption of hostilities between Arabs and Jews dragged somberly through its final hours, combatants on both sides were making preparations to resume warfare.

They had failed to come to terms, and that failure arose out of the fact that there had existed no political or social basis upon which a peace agreement could be rested, nor were either the Jews or Arabs particularly eager to create one.

Their attitude throughout the truce negotiations had been that the contest over whether the state of Israel should be allowed to exist must necessarily be a flat, win-or-lose battle with no middle ground of compromise.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in Palestine, had tried hard, but he had had to carry out his negotiations in what might be termed a spiritual vacuum between the Jews and Arabs. There simply was no meeting of minds upon which he might have capitalized.

Before the truce expired Bernadotte had endeavored to get it extended and continue the negotiations. Israel had agreed to such an extension but the Arab league opposed it.

Previously, during the last days of the truce, the Arabs had rejected a plan submitted by Bernadotte which included an extensive revision of the now defunct U.N. partition scheme.

Bernadotte's proposal would have restored the area of Palestine to what it was before Trans-Jordan was separated from it, and that total area then would have been partitioned into independent Arab and Jewish states.

The plan, as presented, had a ring of desperation in it. It must have been obvious, even to Bernadotte, that the Arabs would not accept such a scheme, particularly since they had violently opposed the original U.N. partition idea.

Trans-Jordan was especially antagonistic to the plan, insisting that it would put the nation under at least partial jurisdiction of the United Nations, thus making it no better than a dependent state.

As Bernadotte and his staff left Palestine guns already were firing and the Holy Land had relapsed into a condition of war.

FARM BILL: Price Support

To the accompaniment of his now customary blast at the 80th congress President Truman signed into law a farm bill that extends present price support policies for 15 months and establishes a long-range, flexible support program to begin January 1, 1950.

Signing the bill, the President said: "I wish to make it plain once again that legislation for price supports is only part of the action this congress should have taken to meet the problems of American agriculture."

Thus, he was not criticizing the farm price support bill in itself but rather giving another re-run to the familiar theme whereby he has been castigating congress for doing a little when a lot more was needed.

Congress, he said, failed to enact legislation to strengthen the soil conservation program; it did not provide the necessary funds for marketing research; it did not act on the international wheat agreement. It failed, he wheedled, to meet "the serious problems of rural housing, health and education."

"In the field of agriculture, as in so many others, most of the business of the 80th congress was left unfinished," Mr. Truman observed.

Under the extension bill farm prices generally will be supported at their present levels. However, the support price for cotton will drop from 92½ to 90 per cent of parity.

The idea behind parity farm prices is to insure the farmer the same buying power, compared with the rest of the community, that he had during a favorable crop period. Usually the standard interval upon which parity prices are based are the five years from 1909 to 1914.

Five other basic crops will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity. They are wheat, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

Spending Money

As the economic cooperation administration closed its Marshall plan books on the first three months of its operation it reported that recovery shipments worth $762,747,140 were approved for Europe and China during that period.

That total is about 58 per cent of the goal originally set for the quarter, but ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman said the unspent balance would be used eventually.

Stage Manager

Rep. Hugh D. Scott Jr. of Pennsylvania has been chosen by Republican leaders as the national chairman to lead the party in the forthcoming presidential campaign. Scott is 47, a World War II veteran and represents the Germantown-Chestnut Hill district of Philadelphia in the house of representatives.

BERLIN: Trouble

As U. S. planes continued to fly tons of food into beleaguered Berlin the East-West stalemate over Germany was solidifying in a stubborn mold.

The Russian blockade of Berlin had brought the painful German issue to a head, and both the Soviets and the western powers were anticipating that events might begin to move very rapidly soon.

There were these developments: The Communists announced that they were drawing up a constitution for a German republic and also a two-year plan to link Berlin economically with the Soviet zone.

At the same time, on the free side of the iron curtain, German political leaders were expressing their opposition to the western powers' plans for a West German federal government.

In Berlin, power cuts were ordered in the three western sectors of the city to save the dwindling coal stocks. The action was taken despite the fact that coal shipments had begun to arrive by air.

Key to the situation, perhaps, was the Communist proposal for a new constitution. The Soviet-sponsored German People's Congress of eastern Germany announced that the document would be official. In a statement the group said that "Germany is an indivisible republic made up of states and that executive power stems from the people."

That appeared to bring Soviet intentions more or less out in the open. It means that Russia apparently is determined either to force the western democracies out of Berlin or bludgeon them into an agreement whereby the Soviets would be in virtual control of the city.

REPUBLICAN: Changes, If

Although the presidency of the United States still is far from a reality for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican nominee nevertheless is giving considerable thought to some of the problems that will face him if he does get elected to the office.

If, for instance, he is to make good his promise to sweep out "16 years of Democratic cobwebs" from the federal government, these are some of the tasks he will be expected to perform:

Replace hundreds of officials in Washington and all over the nation with men of his choice who will put his policies into effect.

Establish with congress a coordinated program of policies for all federal departments, both foreign and domestic.

Streamline government functions and eliminate duplications in the present structure of alphabetical agencies and bureaus.

It will be a gigantic task. Policies that a Republican president would have to establish would range through the current conduct of foreign affairs; domestic spending of taxpayers' money; federal relations with private business, labor and industry; housing, veterans, agriculture and social improvements.

Then there will be the matter of choosing a cabinet that will be geographically representative of the entire nation.

PRICES: Up Again

Consumer's price index, formerly called the cost of living index, for mid-May this year rose .6 per cent above that for mid-April to reach a new all-time high, according to figures released by National Industrial Conference board.

Expressed in 1923 dollars, the purchasing power of the dollar stood at 61.3 cents in May. That represents a drop of .6 per cent from April and 7.4 per cent from June, 1947.

RAILROADS: No Strike

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough was not a man to stand idly by and watch society disintegrate, as he termed it, so he issued an injunction forbidding a national rail strike.

The injunction was a permanent one replacing the temporary "no strike" order he issued last May after the government had seized the railroads in the face of an impending strike by the three operating brotherhoods.

Justifying his action, Goldsborough said that if he had not issued the order "the whole economic and political system of the nation would be upset."

Although rail unions had protested that a permanent injunction was unnecessary, Goldsborough said they could not be permitted "to adopt a process which will disintegrate society itself." That held true, he pointed out, regardless of whatever merits the union's case might hold.

"Our political influence throughout the world would be done away with, we'd become a laughing stock. To permit a strike of this kind is something society should not be forced to tolerate."

But as the stalemate dragged on the disputants apparently lost some of their zest for the contest.

Finally a series of conferences, arranged by John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, resulted in a more or less amicable settlement: The unions agreed to accept a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour, plus some changes in operating rules.

Chortled President Truman as he called the labor and management representatives into his office: "You did this on your own hook and I feel very good about it. I congratulate all of you on it."

CYCLES: Freezing

People who are addicted to the theory that human existence is defined by cycles have made a horrendous prediction: This will be a world of dictators for the next 250 years.

That prognostication was made in a "law of growth of nations," published by the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. This law indicates further that after the period of dictators will come a static or "frozen" civilization.

This "frozen" civilization probably will be a happy one, but it is, nevertheless, doomed to deteriorate. The end is foreseen when younger peoples, eager for the loot of the world, rise to give the coup de grace to the emasculated western powers.

Who these younger peoples are is not revealed. They may be a fresh group of barbarians or near-barbarians who will come sweeping down from the north or up from the south.

Low Finance

In addition to giving Russia a false incentive toward becoming particularly nasty in Berlin, the recent currency revaluation in Germany's western zones caused a certain amount of personal financial confusion also.

This German hausfrau turned in her old currency for the new money sponsored by the western powers, receiving 40 new marks for 60 of the old. But the new money will buy as much as the old—she hopes.

Headliners

IN NEW ORLEANS . . . Mrs. Morris Champagne gave birth to a son in Baptist hospital, 24 hours later Mrs. Joseph Liquor had a daughter, 18 minutes after that Mrs. S. R. Stagers was delivered of a daughter.

IN BUTTE . . . Deputy Sheriff Robert Russel was treated for burns on his right forefinger suffered when he was demonstrating the safe way to handle firecrackers to a group of youngsters.

IN KANSAS CITY . . . Clyde E. Paine, a roundhouse worker, unable to sleep since he was transferred from the day to night shift, invented an electric fan that makes a clacking noise like the wheels of a freight train, lulling him into peaceful slumber.

IN MILWAUKEE . . . James Beard put a handful of nickels into a pay telephone, got a wrong number every time, was arrested when he was found walking down the street in a mist of rage with the telephone receiver dangling by the cord wrapped around his neck.

Farm Co-op Plank

IT APPEARS to this reporter that someone is due for a royal double-crossing on the farm cooperative plank in the Republican platform adopted at the convention at Philadelphia.

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives is pleased with the plank and its Washington letter, the "Washington Situation" of June 25, says "The statement on cooperatives was included over the most bitter opposition from the National Tax Equality association and the National Associated Businessmen, Inc. They appeared before at least three sub-committees during the week in a vain attempt to get a 'tax equality' plank."

On the other hand, the NTEA and the NAB, who are the bitter foes of the NCFC, issued a release at Philadelphia immediately after the platform was adopted in which they claim a decisive victory over the farm co-ops.

The release on the letterhead of NAB declares: "The present tax exemption of cooperatives and other tax exempt businesses failed to win support in the proposed Republican platform of 1948. This defeat for the co-ops was revealed today in the text of the party's proposed platform setting forth principles on which the Republican party will appeal to the nation for votes at the next November general election . . . the co-ops had advocated that the Republicans declare in specific language for the present tax-exempt privileges." Now who is right on this issue?

The GOP platform plank on cooperatives contained just 13 words — "support of the principles of bona-fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated cooperatives." That's all it says. And the farm cooperatives say they are satisfied with that plank.

But the plank on small business, "the bulwark of American enterprise" calls, among other things, for "correction of tax abuses." And it is upon this language that the NTEA and the NAB claim victory.

Insofar as this reporter is concerned, our opinion is that the farm cooperatives are whistling in the dark if they are satisfied with the farm cooperative plank. As a matter of fact, the farm cooperative plank in this 1948 platform is IDENTICAL with the 1944 GOP convention platform which read "support of the principles of bona-fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated cooperatives." And further, the 1944 plank on small business provided "it must be aided by changes in taxation . . . and enforcement of laws against monopoly and unfair competition."

Tax Issue

And the 1944 plank did not prevent the Republican 80th congress from attempting to eliminate the tax-exempt features of farm cooperatives and neither did it bring about further enforcement of laws against monopoly or "unfair competition" for small business.

If the co-ops will remember, Rep. Walter Ploeser (Rep., Mo.) conducted hearings all over the country with the express purpose of ending the tax exemption of co-ops declaring they were socialistic or communistic.

And it was only the Herculean efforts of some of the friends of agriculture in congress that headed off a new tax bill when Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, started to hold hearings for this purpose, namely ending of co-op tax exemption.

The one thing upon which co-op leaders are pinning their hopes is that both Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP presidential nominee, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, vice presidential nominee, are on record as favoring retention of the tax-exempt feature. So, also, is President Harry Truman.

To use a favorite expression of Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, the long range farm program adopted by the 80th congress is a "delusion and a snare." The senate passed a pretty fair bill. The house balked and passed a stand-by bill which merely extended present price supports to January, 1950. Then the conference committee took the senate bill and the house bill, made present price supports applicable until Dec. 31, 1949, and the senate bill is presumed to go into effect then. What will happen though is that a new bill will be written before that time.

Over 800 Bills

Bills passed by the 80th congress likely will total more than 800 and in addition about 390 private bills were passed. Out of 61 vetoes by President Truman, six were overridden. But on the major issues the 80th congress fell by the wayside on such important bills as agriculture, housing, oleomargarine, national health, federal aid to education, a national road program, universal military training and many others.

Washington Digest

Some Things Are Worse Than Being in the Army

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Less than a month from now the draft will hit young Americans, but it will be a nudge, not a wallop. One of its chief immediate purposes is to deflect the flood of enlistments of young men from the national guard and the reserves to the regular services.

It is expected that so many eligibles will enlist rather than wait until they are invited that only between 200,000 and 250,000 will actually be requested to report or —

It isn't at all strange that there is a certain amount of reluctance on the part of so many young Americans to leap to arms the moment they ascertain that their country has decided they are needed. There are no bugles blowing. No foreign tyrant has soiled the nation's honor, there is no visible sign of a "military necessity" to disturb the even tenor of their activities—sandlot, movie, poolroom, work, study or play.

On the contrary, there has been an almost steady anti-military propaganda from all sorts of sources, all the way from the paid agents of the Kremlin to the innocent idealists or the doting mothers who think that if fighting must be indulged in, it certainly should be done by some other mother's boy. The polls show these propagandists are in the minority, but they are a loud minority.

Personally, if I were advising a teen-ager I never would recommend close order drill or tossing together a batch of firing data which would produce almost as many shoris as overs, as the one most terrifically scrumptious method of whiling away a couple of years.

On the other hand, I have had more adulterated pleasure in doing quite a number of things in which were not included learning the multiplication table, cutting the lawn, making a trial balance, working a paper route, translating the chapter which begins "Caesar trans Rhenum pons fecit," or even carving the Thanksgiving turkey the first time "her" relatives came for dinner.

As I say, I can imagine several things many people would rather do than these mentioned, including military service, but having done them, most people are better for it. I admit that for one of a delicate nervous disposition, unable to adjust his personality to groups, carving a turkey for the first time before in-laws might be the worst thing imaginable. It might be the one particular thing that the particular trauma affecting that particular individual couldn't stand. Extreme psychosis might result—even a psychotic condition that would lead to homicide or some other emotional outburst that a stronger psyche could have repressed or sublimated into kicking the dog or dropping molasses on his wife's girle.

I grant all this freely. There are men so unable to meet the simple challenge of the crowd, for instance, even those only mildly afflicted with agoraphobia, that they never could stand a simple formation like pay-calls. I have known the type in civilian life so sensitive to the presence of others that although he had been drinking peacefully for hours and accepting the hospitality of say two or three acquaintances, when an additional member appeared (just when it was our subject's turn to buy a round) he would jump through a plate glass window, four stories to the street below.

Someway, he lacked the group instinct. I admit that type probably wouldn't get on in the army—long. However, I claim these are exceptions.

The majority of the problems which the youth of our land is going to have to face soon are not too tough. And they are good exercise—like parading in full kit.

Meanwhile 694,000 men, without giving more than a thought to the hardships ahead of them (197,000 of these, according to the experts, are re-enlistments and therefore should know what they are getting into) will already have joined up, thus reducing the number of those who bashfully await their Uncle's nod this year.

Thus out of the 924,000 new men needed, less than 250,000 will be drafted. And many of those who are called will not be chosen because of the number of exemptions granted.

Veterans with combat records, with 90 days service between Pearl Harbor and V-J day, or with 18 months' service since September, 1940, will be exempt, as will anyone who has earned a combat infantryman's badge, a Purple Heart, Air Medal, or any combat medal.

Exemptions will be granted to any veteran joining an organized reserve unit, or if the nearest one which he otherwise might join is an unreasonable distance from where he lives.

There are three kinds of deferments for those planning on going to college (1) for all full-time students, until academic year ends; (2) advanced students in certain specialties; (3) four years' deferment for college students enrolling in a full four-year ROTC course or other military courses under special conditions.

There are exemptions under certain conditions for married men, high school students, scientists, engineers and reservists.

So not many young men who don't want to be going to have to serve in the armed forces of their country. At least at present there seem to be enough ready to step forward before they are actually called.

As I remarked, it is easy to understand why the average youth would rather not accept the restrictions and discipline of army life. A part of the lack of enthusiasm for soldiering is due to the long tradition in the United States that soldiering is a wartime business for all those who don't make it their fulltime business. And I use the word business because it describes a career honored in this country far above that of the professional man—the artist or the writer—and the homage rendered is even greater in comparison if a member of the military profession is involved, excepting, of course, war heroes.

This is something hard to change. But the thing we can and should combat is the propaganda referred to earlier—propaganda which is put forward in many cases for far different reasons than even the proponents realize.

Far too often objection to military service is made on the basis that it is itself a bad thing or a wasteful thing, when the real reason behind the argument is a selfish unwillingness to take the risk or sacrifice the time and effort which the service involves.

Frequently this false reasoning stems entirely from the influence of a parent whose purely selfish possessiveness has perverted the mind of a youngster who otherwise would accept his responsibility and take his training in his stride with no more than the ordinary, harmless grouching which is as much a part of military service as the alibis at the 19th hole.

It Wasn't Like This In the Old Army

The army psychologists have been working double time ever since they discovered that it took more than guts and gunpowder to win wars, and that the winning was easier on something besides hardback and whiskey.

In World War II, besides the best food an army ever ate, better medical attendance than the average civilian can get, and a lot more superlatives, the armed forces went in for yards and yards of colored ribbon. It did no harm, even if the British did say the Yanks got a new service stripe every time they saw a battle in a newsreel. And it helped morale.

And now something new has been added. A whole new system of chevrons in two colors have been devised for combat and non-combat non-commissioned officers. Combat leaders—squad sergeants and platoon sergeants, for example—get an inch-wide tab of green in the middle of each shoulder loop.

Despite all this, I can't help thinking of the verse that came out of a war where the prevailing color was olive drab—with the drab predominating. It goes like this: Oh the general with his shiny stars, leadin' the parade, the colonel and the adjutant a-sportin' all the braid, the major and the skipper—none of 'em look so fine as a newly minted corporal a-comin' down the line!

Ike Couldn't Say Anything

Before the Democratic political convention, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower couldn't sit down to write a letter without reading in his newspaper the next day that that letter had been translated into an acceptance on his part to run against Truman for the presidential nomination.

Had Eisenhower written a letter saying that he often leaned back to dream about the North African campaign or to think about the decisions at Casablanca, someone would have been sure to come forth to say: "See that? He talks about a campaign—obviously hinting at the presidential race—and 'decisions at Casablanca'—get that? Casablanca is Spanish for White House!"

THE BATTLE of the two leagues for all-star talent goes on snap-pily from year to year. This season the National has the jump on its American league rival when it comes to the rookie contingent, but the American still has the lead in veteran headliners.

The average playing quality in both leagues this season hasn't been any too hot.

It hasn't been boiling at any point. The effects of the long war, the draft and war service, haven't worn away yet. They are still in evidence by the number of ball-players in the big leagues who are not big league ballplayers.

This applies especially to pitching, with any number of right and left arms trying in vain to locate the plate. There have been too many badly played games, too many misplays. But there are still more than a few stars.

How would you size them up? Here, at least, is a starter:

American league—Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Lou Boudreau, Joe Gordon, George Kell, Ken Keltner and Allen Zarilla. National league—Stan Musial, Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer, Cincy Slaughter, Johnny Mize, Andy Pafko, Pee Wee Reese, Del Ennis, Tommy Holmes and Carl Furillo.

The National league has come up with the stronger hitters in Kiner and Sauer, two able powerhouses in human mold who can hit the ball a long way. As things look at this somewhat early date, the older league has picked the better crop of kids.

Lack Great Ballplayers

But outside of Musial, the older circuit has nothing to match Williams, Boudreau and DiMaggio as great ballplayers.

Williams is the only ballplayer left with even an outside chance to crowd Ty Cobb's brilliant lifetime record of .367. Williams is up above .350 for his entire career, which means he will need two or three .400 seasons to start a threatening challenge.

In any event, Williams is the only ballplayer left hanging around with the Hornsby's, Jacksons, Sislers and one or two others who belong on the higher uplands of swat.

Williams is the last of the big hitters, the only one who might know another 400 year in his league. The National has its challenger in Musial, a great ballplayer, and another potential 400 entry. Williams and Musial are the two best we have left when it comes to moving the old ash furniture around the house.

The pitchers? You can forget about them. There isn't a pitcher today in the same class with Cy Young, Pete Alexander, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson—especially Johnson. And no one around who is as good as Eddie Plank or Lefty Grove.

The last great pitcher the game had was Dizzy Dean. Bob Feller could have been, if it hadn't been for his outside interests, plus the war. Hal Newhouser isn't too far off. Ewell Blackwell was on his way when a sore arm bowled him over.

Golf Psychology

Golfers can't understand why their games should change so quickly and so sharply.

Golf is largely a game of mental attitude for the day. This varies sharply. There are certain days when you can concentrate on what you want to do. As Jim Barnes put it—"Concentration is thinking of the right thing—at the right time."

This means that you can remember to swing smoothly—to keep your head in place, two of the essential things to do. A day later you'll keep hurrying your backswing and then hurry your downswing. Your mental attitude is one of hurry.

"On the days I play well, or better than usual," a certain leading amateur said recently, "I feel lazy. That's a good way to feel if you want to score. Feel lazy. That doesn't mean you have to loaf walking. It means you are in no hurry to get the club head in motion. You loaf on the backswing and then loaf on the downswing."

Finish Your Backswing

This is true enough. On certain days, the golfer starts his downswing before he finishes his backswing. This is one of the game's most common faults. Unless the backswing is fully completed, the downswing is wrecked in advance. "You looked up on that one," someone will say. Looking up wasn't the fault. Hurrying the backswing was the fault—the reason, the head was lifted. You can feel lazy on certain days. On other days you can't. You try to—but it won't work any too effectively. On certain days, you can think only of swinging the club head.

Hamlin Man Appointed to 3-Year Term On FHA Committee for Jones County

Appointment of William C. Eoff, Route 1, Hamlin to a three year term on the Farmers Home Administration county committee for Jones County was announced Wednesday by L. J. Cappleman, state director.

Eoff succeeds Euclid D. C. Appling, whose term expired June 30. Also on the committee are Charles M. Walsh of Route 3 Stamford and Walter L. Alford of Route 2, Anson. A committee of three serves in each agricultural county though out the Nation in which the agency makes farm ownership and operating loans. Appointments are scheduled so that a committee always has two experienced members.

The FHA county committee has an important place in making supervised credit available to local farmers, according to George L. von Roeder, county supervisor.

Before any money can be borrowed through the agency an applicant must have the approval of the county committee. In the case of farm ownership loans, the farm to be purchased, enlarged or improved must also be approved by the committee. "The members know agricultural conditions in the county and are often familiar with the farm the applicant plans to operate," von Roeder explained.

In addition to approving loans the committee cooperates with the county supervisor in overall administration of the program in the county. Periodically they review the progress of borrowers to determine whether they have reached a financial position that would enable them to refinance their loans through private lenders. A farmer who is eligible for credit from regular lending sources is not eligible for a loan from the Farmers Home Administration.

"Using this system of operation, the agency has helped 700 families in Jones County toward better farming and better living with farm purchase and farm operating loans," von Roeder said. In the past 12 months 156 applications have been received for this type of credit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bessire and children, Kay and Jack, Mrs. L. B. Holden were recent visitors with is brother Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bessire on the Tom B. Medders Ranch near Wichita Falls.

Publications List Help in Securing New Industries

A selected list of recent publications and reports of interest to businessmen in Jones County has just been released by the United States Department of Commerce, Dallas to the Hamlin area interested peoples.

Materials listed may be secured from the Dallas Office, some being with out charge.

Included is a bibliography containing both governmental and non governmental publications related to three main aspects of plant location:

- 1.—Efforts to attract industry to certain communities or regions.
- 2.—Selection of suitable factory sites.
- 3.—Industrial migration.

Pioneer Resident Buried Thursday

A resident of Hamlin 23 years, Samuel Marshall Richardson, 66, died Wednesday, July 14, in the Hamlin Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were held at 3:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Sam King officiating, assisted by Rev. A. R. Posey, pastor. Burial was in the Hamlin Cemetery.

He was born in Cherokee County, Alabama, October 4, 1882 and moved to Fannin County at the age of 11. He married the former Hattie Money, December 12, 1912, near Wolfe City and the couple moved to Jones County in 1925.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Brandon White of Stephenville; a son, Cecil of Hamlin; three sisters, Mrs. Nan Huff-of Bell, Mrs. John Richardson of Paris and Mrs. Della Lydia of Waco; and three grandchildren. Lawrence Funeral Home was in charge of direction.

Agricultural Conservation Policies Are Outlined to Benefit Nation As a Whole

Agricultural Conservation Program exists because the public benefits from soil conservation. Conservation of our soil and water resources is vital to everyone—townspeople as well as farmers. The health and welfare of this an succeeding generations depends upon the maintenance of the productivity of our farm lands according to the Jones County ACA.

Every part of the Agricultural Conservation Program and everything done under it must be in the National interest. Every possible practice, plan and procedure must meet the test as to whether it contributes to the Nation's welfare and not alone to the benefit of the individual farmer concerned.

The purpose of soil and water conservation is to prevent all processes of soil deterioration—to keep soils from washing and blowing away; to rebuild those which have been abused; to retain and improve their productivity and tillage; to improve range; to protect watersheds, and aid in flood control; to protect and improve farm woodland and to make best use of agricultural water. Practices which in reality are production practices only and which make no essential contribution to a system of conservation farming, have no legitimate place in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

It is the purpose of the program to assist farmers in carrying out conservation practices over and above those which would be performed without program assistance. It is not the policy to pay farmers for all conservation measures carried out by them. Program assistance should be approved for only those practices which the farmer is not customarily carrying out in needed volume.

The Program should contain provisions which will help farmers meet urgent conservation problems which they would not meet without some assistance. All farmers should be informed of the assistance available under the program and should be encouraged to meet the conservation needs of their farms.

The conservation practices approved for assistance on any farm should represent orderly progress toward the accomplishment of conservation farming. Priority should be given to practices required to prevent serious or irreparable damage.

A simple and practical conservation plan should be developed for each farm. Plans developed by farmers cooperating with other agencies should be utilized by committees to the fullest practicable extent.

Wholehearted cooperation ought to be maintained at all times by all agencies which are in position to aid in conservation. The advice and assistance of technical agricultural workers should be utilized fully in formulating programs.

Every county and State should have a sound, long range program for agriculture in the area which takes into account conservation of the soil and water resources. Conservation is influenced by the type of farming as well as by individual practices. The Agricultural Conservation Program should emphasize practices which aid in the expansion of conservation types of farming.

In the formulation of conservation programs and the approval of practices, full weight should be given to measures that protect watersheds and aid in flood control. This should be stressed particularly in areas subject to recurring flood damage or where organized flood control programs are being

'Railroader' Cash Has "Write-Up" in Papers

(Ed's Note. The following article, in the column, "Up and Down the Santa Fe" first appeared in the San Angelo Standard and has been reprinted in other papers and concerns Walter Cash of Hamlin).

Retired Section Foreman Walter Cash sitting around reminiscences going over the past remembers that he has been the papa or trainee of many a section foreman for the Orient - Santa Fe. Among them are L. F. Fannin who Cash oked and put out as foreman July 22, 1908, and who is now also retired and lives at Chillicothe; Sam H. Tarvan, who was promoted on Aug. 14, 1922, and who is now the section foreman at Fort Stockton; T. L. Taylor promoted Sept. 9, 1926, and who is now section foreman at Big Lake; Ray Thomas who was promoted Dec. 1, 1916, and is now the section boss at Christoval.

Among others Cash helped promote are two Hamlin men: Tom Taylor and G. L. McCracken. Others are: Conductor P. F. Fannin, to section foreman in 1916; E. L. Walden, now of San Saba; besides four others who are now deceased. Walter Cash has worked in several departments of railroading and at one time served as roadmaster. He was promoted to section foreman himself Feb. 7, 1906, at Hamlin.

As Father's Day rolls around, in them as if he had been their real father. Cash makes his home in Hamlin where he served the greater part of his railroad career.

ONE MORE JUMP

By ROBERT C. BLACKMON

"I've told you it makes no difference to me, Ralph, and I meant it. It really doesn't."

Dusk dimmed the coral gold of Harriet Marne's hair, dimmed the blue of the light dotted buildings rising above the flat roofs upon which she and Ralph Pell stood. It filled with deep shadow the narrow slot of the alley between them, and the noise of the city was a screen about them, isolating them from the rest of the world.

"That's what you think now, but you'd get straight in your thinking in a few weeks, or months, or years. Then it would make a lot of difference." Across the alley, Ralph Pell leaned bronzed arms on the low brick parapet of the other building and shook his head in slow deliberation. Pink neon glow spilling into the alley from the street eight floors down glinted on his brown eyes and made odd shadows in his curly brown hair. It changed to an impossible color the tan of his knitted sport shirt. "After that, it would always be there between us. Or rather, it wouldn't be there."

He laughed harshly and reached down to feel, through brown trouser fabric, the device which substituted for the flesh and bone he had left on a field in Normandy when gunfire from the ground met parachutes drifting silently in the darkness. He would never forget that.

"No, Ralph." Harriet's small fist struck the stained brick of the low parapet bordering her own flat roof, as if to drive understanding across the dark drop of the alley between them. "It would never make any difference to me. To me, you would always be—"

"Normal?" His voice was flat and bitter.

"Please, Ralph." Her voice rose a little.

"Sorry, but I'd never be that, even with two real legs." He laughed shortly. "Service medico says I'm part of a mind, as well as part of a man. Let's not kid ourselves. Too much is riding on it. It would always be there between us like—well, like this alley is between us now. I'd have as much chance getting over it as I would getting over this alley." He glanced down at the eight-story drop, the sliver of pavement below. "Imagine me doing that. Be your age. Get wise to some facts. The best thing for both of us to do is to forget we ever—"

"Ah!" He made a savage gesture.

"Let's talk about something else."

Harriet said that quickly, almost desperately.

"Let's talk about you peeping at me on my roof here this summer. Let's talk about you waiting downstairs to introduce yourself as the peeper. Let's talk about the places we have been together, the things we have done. Let's talk about our meeting up here with the alley between us in the evening. Let's talk about—"

Her voice stopped for a moment on an odd, sharp gasp. "Let's talk about the big ape escaping from the city zoo this afternoon. Let's—"

"Ape escaping from the zoo?"

Ralph Pell stood, tall and slender in the night. "I haven't heard anything about it. You're sure?"

"You probably missed it." Harriet laughed a little shrilly. "The ape is big and black and ferocious. I—I certainly wouldn't like to meet him up here on my roof alone, with no one here to help me. Goodness! Ooooooooooh!" She shivered audibly.

"No chance of that." There was amused tolerance in his grin. "The ape's probably back in his zoo cage."

and glad to get away from humans. And I didn't peep at you on your roof. I looked. It can't be a crime to look at softness and beauty and sweetness, with so much hardness and ugliness and bitterness in the world. It can't be a crime for a—

Ah! Let's talk about the ape!" he finished quickly, harshly.

"Well, I like that," Harriet laughed.

She moved away from the parapet, small and shapely in the night against the neon sky. "I'm cold. I'll have to get a wrap. Don't go away. I'll be back in a minute."

Ralph Pell watched her cross the flat roof of the other building to the small shedlike structure that housed the stairway. It was about forty feet away. Then he jammed his

For a moment, he was drifting down through the black Normandy night, a huge silk dome above him, bracing himself for the blast from the ground, the numbing shock of bullets striking.

His artificial foot struck the other parapet and slipped off. He fell. There was a quick, breath-taking drop toward the pavement eight floors down, then his outflung arm struck brick. Brown fingers curled over a sharp edge, gripping. Strain came on the arm as he stopped the fall, and his weight all but tore his fingers loose. Small, sharp sounds came from his lips and he got his good leg up, hooked the heel over the edge of the parapet, then levered the rest of him up. He rolled over the parapet top and dropped to the flat gravel roof of the other

"It would never make any difference to me. To me, you would always be—"

She groped momentarily for a word that would not sting.

hands down into his trouser pockets, swore softly and kicked at gravel on his own flat roof with his good foot, balancing himself on the artificial limb. His eyes were stormy, his lips tight.

Harriet was swell people. That made it tough, but positive. She deserved a whole man. Years, or maybe only months or weeks from now, she'd look back and be glad that things turned out as they had. She'd realize that he was right, and maybe she'd understand why—and well, everything. It was tough now, but—

HARRIET'S small figure appeared in the doorway of the stairway shed on the other roof. Even as she appeared, a strange black shape came between them, all but blocking her from his view. Then he heard her scream, shrill and clear in the night.

"Ralph!"

The impact of the two words drove him forward until his knees struck the edge of the low brick parapet bordering the eight-story drop into the alley between the two buildings.

He heard Harriet scream again.

Shouting for help would be useless. By the time someone heard and understood and reached the other roof, . . . It would take many minutes to run downstairs, cross to the other building and get to the roof. In the meantime, . . .

Sweat came out on his face as he put his good foot up on the edge of the brick parapet and thrust his lean weight up with the other leg. Grunting with effort, he flung himself out over the alley and toward the brick parapet of the other building roof.

Thy Word

Grace Nell Crowell

AS THE wild things store their food for each winter hour,
Thus, Lord, I have hid thy word within my heart.

To draw upon for food, for strength and power
When the winds blow cold and darkness is a part
Of daily living, I have safely stored
Thy word, dear Lord, a precious golden hoard.

So radiantly it glows within my breast,
It is like firelight, like candleshine.
I share it with the hungry and oppressed,
I give it out, and still thy word is mine.
I should be as a beggar in my need
Had I not hid this food on which to feed.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Life's Problems Are Endless

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

The trouble is that Norma and Fred never were married. Fred had a living wife when he and Norma first fell in love.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

FUNNY, isn't it, how many women and men, too, would be completely happy if not for one thing? Just set one little detail right and life would be simple again, as it used to be when they were young.

Who cannot remember certain house parties that were so much fun, excitement, flattery and confidence that there was not a cloud in the sky? When the dresses mother had packed and ironed were just the right dresses? When one borrowed a dashing hat, climbed a mountain, came back to some cabin soaked and ravenous, devoured gargantuan meals and sat drowsy and content before a blazing fire thinking that life simply couldn't be more glorious!

Isn't it a pity that the picture has to cloud so soon, that complications, mistakes and troubles move in so early and take up their abode with us?

Especially now is life anxious and clouded for most of us. Even if we forget our own petty trials, there is always the shadow of hungry babyhood in Europe and of struggling, warring, bewildered and unscrupulous governments mixing everything up all over again and robbing us of our last feeble effort to get our philosophy working. Taxes worry us.

Where Grandmother had three contented and efficient servants and mother always had at least one, gallant little Joan of today hasn't any and yet she wants to raise babies, keep a nice house, entertain, keep out of debt and occasionally go dancing with Jack as they used to do. Small wonder that for some of today's women the problem is too tough and they are going in for psychopathic reactions at a rate that would put in the shade the vapors, faints, nerves and weeping fits of their Victorian forebears!

Norma Wilcox has only one gnawing, burning problem, but she would swap it sight unseen for 20 of the usual kind. She is 36, a woman to whom years have brought an increasing beauty and charm. Her husband is popular and attractive as she is, in his own way, and the three children are beauties—a girl of 13 and boys of 11 and 4. The Wilcoxs recently have bought a beautiful place on Long Island and Fred is progressing steadily toward fame and fortune. The nicest neighboring families have taken up the Wilcoxs with great enthusiasm, so what is the trouble?

The trouble is that Norma and Fred never were married. Fred had a living wife when he and Norma first fell in love. They were 15 years younger then, penniless and adventurous, and they took the law into their own hands. Now Fred's wife is dead, but he won't consent to a marriage ceremony. He says, which is true, that his name would make the thing news and he will not have his children marked by illegitimacy. His advice is "Forget it."

No one knows this except myself, Norma, Fred and Fred's aristocratic mother, who never has liked Norma. She intends to leave her fortune to the daughter of Fred's first marriage. Norma, therefore, knows that when the older woman dies, the story must come out. She

... Fred's aristocratic mother ...

RAINBOW CHASERS

The subject of Miss Norris' discussion is rainbow chasers—people who claim they would be perfectly happy IF. That small, two-letter word is dynamite—laden with connotations.

Like a weary biker who has surmounted a steep hill only to be confronted by a series of more difficult inclines, these people are anticipating the day when their last obstacle will be behind them. They are certain that the day will arrive sometime despite the admonitions and warnings of wiser people who have preceded them.

Norma, who is typical of the multitudes who are blind searching for the unattainable rainbow, writes Miss Norris that she would be supremely happy IF her common-law husband would marry her. She has money, social position, children, a beautiful home and limitless luxuries but feels that she is still lacking something. If Fred would legally marry her, Norma thinks she would be assured of security since Fred would not be as apt to discard her for another woman. Not only that but deep down in his heart Fred would respect and cherish her more.

The situation is a difficult one but Norma can be assured that once her present problem is solved others will spring up to take its place for the problems of life are endless.

knows that fascinating women are paying court to Fred in his new successes. She knows that should they separate, her three children would be hers alone, but she doesn't want that. She doesn't want the children to live apart with her somewhere, on an allowance that would be merely charity on Fred's part.

She's not really afraid of Fred's leaving her. She knows that even if the affair was a nine-day wonder, it wouldn't hold the public interest forever. But she's uncomfortable.

When she told me the story two years ago she said she couldn't resign herself to accept the situation. Her mother-in-law naturally has no respect for her, she said. She doesn't think Fred has, deep in his heart. When she says to him that there are quiet places where he and she could be married without publicity, he brushes the whole matter off unconcernedly. She has her furs, home, opera box, children and everything else she wants, hasn't she? For the rest, "forget it."

"When I get tired of you, I'll let you know," Fred tells her.

"Every time I fancy I'm less pretty or popular," writes Norma, "or Fred spends more than three minutes talking to some new woman, I get nervous and can't sleep. And nobody knows and nobody sympathizes and everyone thinks I'm the luckiest woman in the world. Is there any easy way out of a mess like this?"

What I wrote her is between Norma and me. It was a way out. But not an easy one. There is no easy way out.

Women Excel in Murder
CHICAGO.—Take it from the Illinois Police association, women get away with murder.

In its official journal, the association said women are harder to prosecute for slaying than men.

"Occasionally, a woman goes to jail for a killing," the article said, "but not too often. The electric chair seems destined to be used only by male customers. Illinois juries don't favor it for women."

Most women slayers get short terms in asylums or acquittals.

"Glory of God" is Subject of Discussion By Dr. W. C. House

Subject—The Glory of God. Text—"The whole earth is full of his glory." Isaiah 6:3b. The glory of God is seen in the Bible narratives, in creation, in Mt. Sinai, and in the Transfiguration of Christ. His glory is also seen about us today, in nature and in art and literature.

Then why should not man be full of the glory of God and manifest forth that glory? And why cannot we see the glory of God all about us?

Is it because our eyes are blurred, "Having eyes we cannot see." When I drive with colored glasses it looks cloudy and gloomy. Remove the glasses and the sun is shining brightly. "Two men look through the self same bars, one sees mud and the other sees stars." What do you see when you look out the window?

The meaning of life is determined not so much by what life brings to us as by the attitude we bring to life; not so much by what happens is conditioned largely by our fundamental philosophy of life and our habit of visualization.

Mrs. Browning wrote, "Earth's crammed with heaven and every common bush aflame with God; he who sees takes off his shoes the rest sit around and eat blackberries." Ah, there's the rub. Jesus said, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." The whole earth is full of God's glory and as we develop in spir-

Rev. Smith Gives Summary of Sermon Brought Sunday

Rev. Smith, pastor of the local Church of the Nazarene, spoke on the subject, "Calling of the Saints Sunday Morning." First thought was given to the fact that we are called to be saints. Paul mentioned in I Cor. 1:2, that they were called to be saints. The pastor brought out that the calling to be a saint exceeded everything else. The preacher might reach heights in this life, but he should always be a bigger Christian than he was a preacher. The same goes for the other callings of life.

Bro. Smith also mentioned that we are called unto God's kingdom and glory. Paul says, I Thes. 2:12, "That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory."

It is a wonderful thing that the Christians are given the privileges of living under a new sovereign: in a new kingdom. He mentioned in the message that we walk worthy. It is good that a man can be qualified by the grace and righteousness of Christ to be worthy. Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness and hath transferred us into the kingdom of his dear Son." The pastor told that we were called to obtain the glory. Paul said, "To the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ." 2 Thes. 2:14. Not our glory, but His. The angels announced, "Glory to God in the highest." The model prayer says, "Thine is the glory." The speaker referred us to the scripture in Titus about the glorious appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. And then we were asked if we were letting Him have the glory.

These were only a few things that were said, but they do give an idea of the sermon.

Bro. Scott Brings a Talk on "Rise and Let Us Be Going"

Subject—Rise and Let Us Be Going. Scripture Reading Matt. 26:46, Luke 22:46.

Jesus assembled with the Apostles on Thursday evening before His betrayal to eat the Passover feast. Following the feast, Our Lord instituted the Lord's Supper. After singing a hymn they went out to the Garden. Jesus left eight of the Apostles in one place, took Peter, James and John a little further and left them as He went further to pray. He prayed and returned to them and found them asleep. He went back and prayed again and returned to find them asleep a second time. The third time when He returned he said, "Arise, and let us be going."

Christians today must ever be on their guard against sleeping. First, I Cor. 9:27; I Cor. 10:12; show us danger of not being awake to the power of Satan. Second, sleeping Christians is always a danger to the church. Examples: Businessmen go to sleep when the manager is not awake. The church went into apostasy during the dark ages because the members were not awake to the dangers about it. The church is asleep as the individual members are asleep.

The causes of the church being asleep today are: 1. Weakness of the flesh. (Matt. 26:41.) 2. Ignor-

lance. (I Cor. 15:34.) 3. Failure to worship. (I Cor. 11:30; Heb. 10:25-27.) 4. Worldly attractions. (I Jno. 2:15-16.) 5. Desire for popularity. (Jas. 4:4.) 6. Self-satisfaction. (Rev. 3:14-18.)

It is time we awakened to our responsibilities. (Rom. 13:11; Dan. 6:16). With Christ, let us say, "Arise and let us be going."

TELEVISION COMMERCIALS

It strikes this department that the TV (television to you) commercial is tough on the great unseen and unprinted audience. It gives you not only the salestalk but close-ups of the product. It throws the book, bottle, tin can, carton, container and crate at you.

Take your radio straight and you get a talk on shortening, but take it by video and you get television views of the bread, cake and pies, profile, full view and sliced. You see the hair tonic in the photogenic bottle; the cigarette comes bouncing into the living room alive and dropping the ashes.

To hear about a cake of soap is one thing; to have to watch it as it takes form is another. Cereals, stogies and salad oils are not so hard when heard, but there is a question about them as a movie screen double feature.

There was this to be said about the old-fashioned radio: You could imagine the announcer was easy on the eyes. It was easier to close your ears than your eyes. If we went to the movies and the big scene was held up by a few special shots of a can of lard, a nutbar factory or a close-up of a chocolate layer cake, view from all angles, we would squawk.

Elmer Twitchell is especially hostile. "I object to my home being made a showroom for the assorted products of American industry," he declares. "Why should my den be converted into a commercial exposition hall and my parlor made a sales manager's delight?"

"TV is young and a seventh wonder. Its sheer wizardry is appealing. I appreciate being able to get pictures via the airways with a mere twisting of the dials, but I call for a little toning down of the illustrated commercials. When the liver pill, the frankfurter, the gasoline and the tooth paste were heard and not seen, it pleased me better.

"Nothing exasperates me more than to struggle with the dials to bring in a ball game clearly and get a lovely movie of a carton of soap flakes. When I want to see a prize fight I want a picture of the pugilists, not the Lever brothers. This emphasis on commercials by video comes at a time when the radio industry claims to have come out for shorter commercials. What goes?"

Mrs. Twitchell tells us that Elmer is a wreck over television anyhow. (He lives in the suburbs where he has to have an outside aerial of such size it makes his bungalow look like a naval station, she says. And Elmer insists that planes mistake his house for a beacon.)

"But the illustrated commercials are what unnerve him," says Mrs. Twitchell. "Me? Well, a jingle is certainly harder on the nerves when I see the perpetrators."

VANISHING AMERICANISMS:

"We can rent a rowboat all day for a dollar."

"He doesn't make much money but he never complains."

"Here's a boy to mow the lawn for 50 cents."

"Got two cents for a stamp?"

"I know where you can get a good used car cheap."

"Here's a nickel; buy yourself an ice cream cone."

"Go ahead and order anything you want; the check here won't be much."

Siamese gunmen stole two million dollars of international gold the other day. A million for each twin.

HOUSING SOLUTION
There was an old woman
She lived in a shoe . . .
She had a better house
Than I have or you.

"Twas just so much footwear
A boot, so to speak,
But it held up okay,
And the thing didn't leak.

Elmer Twitchell says he hears that at that tavern to be run by Mrs. Roosevelt and Elliott you can put a nickel in the juke box and get back 20 cents, a musical recording, a sandwich, and somebody else's coat and hat.

Build It From A Pattern

By: Donald R. Brann

There's nothing like having an old fashioned picnic in your own backyard. Especially so when you have this sturdy table all set up ready to seat the entire family. Its construction permits leaving it out the year round.

Building the table or other pieces of lawn furniture provides an economical solution to your household equipment problems. In many cases two articles can be made for less than one costs ready made. Besides saving money, woodworking provides hours of complete relaxation. Once you've experienced the deep down satisfaction of seeing lumber turn into a useful picnic table or lawn chair, you will undoubtedly become one of a huge army of "Build It Yourself" enthusiasts.

Keep regular this healthful way—

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination. No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutrition! Lemon in water is good for you! Generations of Americans have taken lemons for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C, supply valuable amounts of B₁ and P. They alkalize, aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days. USE CALIFORNIA SUNKIST LEMONS

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

West Texas C. of C. Is Seeking Solution Of Mexican Seasonal Labor Problem

Solution of the Mexican seasonal labor problem in Hamlin area and other Texas cities is seen in a request made this week by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Latin-American Commission in Abilene to the Texas Good Neighbor Commission in seeking executive action by the governor.

This action would include a proclamation by the governor, calling on all mayors and Chambers of Commerce in every town in Texas to use their efforts to prevent discrimination. The WTCC group also would have the governor issue executive orders to the Texas Employment Commission to exercise greater control over movement of the Mexican workers, to prevent exploiting by "jeffes" and otherwise causing the overloads on communities unprepared for the influx of hordes of seasonal workers.

This plan was presented to Thomas L. Sutherland at San Angelo by Claude Meadows Sr., chairman of the WTCC group, after its preparation by General Manager D. A. Bandeen of Abilene. For more than month the WTCC has been getting letters from city and Chamber of Commerce officials in West Texas, outlining steps taken to provide accommodations. It was pointed out that these letters are from the highest official and civic authorities and speak with authority in their premises.

Sutherland has been asked to transmit the letters to the Mexican government in an attempt to have lifted the ban against importation of Mexican workers.

The following points were made in the presentation:

- 1.—That there are organized activities in every community to eliminate racial discrimination.
- 2.—That there are organized activities to provide necessary temporary and permanent housing, eating and entertainment facilities and many such facilities have already been extended.
- 3.—That educational and religious advantages are offered without discrimination.
- 4.—That there is a parity in compensation, and Mexican workers are paid on the same basis as any others for the same type of work, and the wage scale in West Texas is considerably higher than in Mexico.

Attention Tax Payers

The Tax Record of Two Men

PAT BULLOCK

Now a member of the State Senate and a candidate for re-election to a SECOND full term.

In 1941, Pat Bullock (Then a member of the House of Representatives) Co-authored and helped pass the Bill which increased the tax on OIL, GAS and SULPHUR. This was to pay Old Age Assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the needy blind and to finance teacher retirement.

Since the passage of this Senator Bullock has successfully opposed all tax bills of every kind. He is especially opposed to a SALES TAX.

With a cash surplus of Ninety Million dollars anticipated in the General Revenue Fund for the next session of the Legislature PAT BULLOCK is opposed to any new taxes.

HARLEY SADLER

Now a member of the House of Representatives and a candidate for the Senate.

At the last session of the Legislature Harley Sadler introduced House Bill No. 634 which levied the following taxes:

1.—The Sadler Bill levied a SALES TAX on all soft drinks whether served at the fountain or in bottles.

2.—The Sadler Bill levied a SALES TAX on TIMBER, LIME, SAND, SHELL, GRAVEL and LIMESTONE, or building stone. (This would have increased the cost of building homes which are so badly needed.)

3.—The Sadler tax Bill would have levied a SALES TAX on Gypsum from which WALL BOARD and other building materials are made.

4.—At the previous session of the Legislature Harley Sadler introduced House Bill No. 174 which levied a SALES TAX on Gasoline used in Farm Tractors. (This would amount to the same thing as taxing a bushel of oats or other horse and mule feed.)

These original Bills are on file in the Secretary of State's Office in Austin just as they were introduced by Mr. Sadler. A copy of these Bills by Harley Sadler, certified by the Secretary of State, has been mailed to each County Judge in the 24th Senatorial District. We suggest that you examine these Bills to verify the truth of the above statements.

The issue between these two candidates is clear. Senator Bullock opposes additional taxes. Mr. Sadler tried to tax the necessities of life.

(This ad paid for by taxpayers of the 24th Senatorial District who are opposed to further burdening the people with new taxes so long as there is a vast surplus in the State Treasury with which to meet the needs of our state.)

It won't work...by itself.

It takes a lot more than a telephone instrument to give you telephone service.

Before a telephone will work it must be connected by a pair of wires from your home all the way to the switching equipment in the central office.

Telephone wire and cable are still scarce compared with the large amounts we need. But we are placing and splicing new cable as fast as we can get it.

In some places, there isn't room for more telephone connections on the switchboards. To get more room, we are adding new equipment—faster than ever before.

Despite shortages, we would be caught up by now if it was not for the extremely large number of new applications for service. They pour in at a rate of 50,000 a month in the Southwest, and that tremendous demand has kept us from eliminating the wait for telephone service in most places.

It is still an uphill pull, but we are gaining on it, and we are grateful for your patience and understanding.

Smith-Doxey Classification Applications Due

Hamlin and other Texas cotton farmers who want to receive classification and market news service on their 1943 crop should get their group applications in within a few days a report states.

Deadline date for the eastern part of the state is August 1 and for the western part August 15. John L. McCollum, manager, of Southwest area cotton branch, USDA's Production and Marketing Administration, Dallas, has announced.

August 1 deadline takes in all counties lying entirely or for the most part east of the 100th Meridian and the August 15 closing date all counties lying entirely or for the most part west of the 100th Meridian.

Both services are provided with out charge under the Smith-Doxey Act to organized cotton improvement groups.

Group applications may be filed at the Dallas cotton office, 1104 South Erway, or at PMA's classing office at Abilene.

Texas had more than 1,000 organized improvement groups last year consisting of nearly 100,000 farmers who had over 1,500,000 bales classed. This represents about one-half of the 1942 crop, McCollum concluded.

Add Copperas for Color.

Huge Outlays Slated in County for Repairs

Jones County non-farm homes will spend an estimated $427,000 in repairing and modernizing according to a report from a building council survey.

That sum will be expended largely on painting, carpentry work, roofing repairs and plumbing, the report revealed.

"Greater availability of building materials will make possible a record amount of home improvement throughout the nation this year," declared Malcolm Schweiker, chairman of the council's residential construction committee.

About 30 of every 100 homes in Texas will be painted, either inside or out, during 1943 and 1944 will have roofs repaired or replaced, according to the report. Seven will have plumbing overhauled, bathrooms tiled or showers installed and six will have carpentry work done, the report revealed.

"To meet demands for materials for both new homes and home repairs, production has been stepped up in practically every type of material," he said. The output of ceramic tile for bathrooms and kitchens is at the highest rate in history.

Throughout the nation between $2,600,000,000 and $3,300,000,000 is to be spent this year on home repair according to the report. This is believed the largest amount ever expended for such work.

Samuel Morse invented the electric telegraph.

Veterans Must Pay Insurance Due Before August 1 Deadline

Robert W. Sisson VA regional manager, reminded Hamlin veterans early this week that July 31 is the last day for reinstatement of lapsed National Service Life Insurance on a "comparative health" basis.

Before August 1, an eligible veteran may reinstate any amount of term insurance—from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500—regardless of the length of time it has been lapsed, and usually without a physical examination. He need only fill out a simple application form, in which he certifies that his health is as good as when the policy lapsed, and pay premiums for two months.

The privilege of reinstating on this basis will be available after July 31 only to veterans whose policies have been lapsed for less than three months. Where the period of lapse is three months or longer, the veteran will be required to take a physical examination and qualify as an insurable risk, the VA regional manager concluded.

Candidate for Associate Justice
Supreme Court of Texas

JUDGE JOHN A. RAWLINS

★ It is recorded May 9, 1945, in 188 S.W. Reporter 2d series, page 276, that James P. Hart, opponent of Judge Rawlins, was one of the attorneys for the labor unions in their unsuccessful and ill-advised attempt to enjoin the State Officials from enforcing the Texas law regulating labor unions, which was passed with the view of protecting public interest.

★ The Appellate Court, in upholding the law forbidding the unions from collecting work permit fees from non-union employees, reorganized the policy expressed by the Legislature in the preamble to the Act "The right to work is the right to live."

★ Judge John Rawlins is under no obligation to either labor or capital. He is now completing 20 years of service as a State Trial Judge. He is a family man, a World War veteran, and a church worker. He has the endorsement of the Dallas Bar Association and is interested only in administering the law fairly and impartially in the interest of the public at large. Hot Foot in Taproom Costs Two Pranksters $10,000

SALEM, N. J. — A taproom "hot foot" cost two Salem men $10,000.

A jury in Salem county court returned the $10,000 verdict against George Kernan, 38, and Ralph Craig, 36, who were charged by Clair Scott, 44, with giving him a "hot foot" while he dozed off.

Scott contended in the damage suit that his stockings and trousers became aflame and his right leg was burned.

Scott was hospitalized several months and his leg still requires treatment, he contended. The trial was delayed for several years because Kernan and Craig were in the military service.

Cattlemen Trap Buzzards That Eat Live Calves

LAKE CHARLES, LA.—Cattlemen in southwest Louisiana are warring on a ravenous flock of buzzards, which has been passing up carcasses for living animals.

The buzzards have been attacking and killing all kinds of livestock, but mostly newly born calves.

W. L. Calwell, who lives near Lake Charles, reported the flying scavengers had killed 20 of his calves in a year and seven in one week.

John E. Jackson, Calcasieu Parish agent, has told farmers to set up poultry wire traps in their large pastures, using a carcass and dead buzzard as a decoy.

He said one farmer near Baton Rouge, La., had trapped and killed 3,500 buzzards in one season by using this method.

In most cases, the cattlemen reported, a flock of about 300 buzzards would swoop down and attack a helpless newly born calf.

Jonathan, Loyal Friend

Lesson for July 25, 1948

WELL might we term this a lesson on the facets of friendship. Rarely will one come upon such a splendid example of friendship in all literature.

Colebridge put it well when he wrote, "Friendship is a sheltering tree." Diogenes Laertius, writing on Aristotle, says, "He was once asked what a friend is, and his answer was, 'One soul abiding in two bodies.'"

Such was the friendship of Jonathan and David—a sheltering tree—one soul abiding in two bodies. Although Jonathan's father attempted at least ten times to kill David, Jonathan was drawn the closer to David, with whose soul his was knit.

The record of this friendship is found in our scripture and devotional readings for the lesson, with the golden text from Proverbs 17:17, "A friend loveth at all times."

A PRINCE SHARES WITH A SHEPHERD

JONATHAN was the crown prince apparent. David was a shepherd boy. Saul expected to place Jonathan on the throne. God had selected David.

Jonathan would, no doubt, have made a better king than Saul, his father, but he had no desire to be king when he discovered the kingly qualities in his friend, David. Not once did Jonathan ever indicate any disappointment in not becoming king.

JONATHAN STANDS UP FOR HIS FRIEND

WHEN Saul openly plotted the death of David, Jonathan begged his father to reconsider his course and spare the life of the man who had killed Goliath and had proved himself the valiant friend of Saul. This was the final test of Jonathan's sacrificial love for David. He might have remained silent, thus aiding in the death of the one man who stood between him and the throne. But Jonathan was made of the stout texture which counts no sacrifice too dear for a friend. He was willing to stand up and be counted when it meant that he would not become king. Thus we see that true friendship is not always easy. It usually is very costly, but it pays big dividends in the coin of eternal wealth.

FRIENDSHIP THAT COSTS

AND like as Jonathan stood up and witnessed his lasting friendship for David, at a very great cost, so are we today summoned to this ennobling type of friendship for Christ. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you," he once said.

Young people find it rather costly to be loyal friends of Christ today. There are many siren voices that invite young people to take the low road—social drinking, gambling, devices of one sort and another, satisfaction of sensual desires—but the true friend of Christ will withstand these voices, choosing rather the high road of Christian gentlemen.

SACRIFICIAL FRIENDSHIP

FRIENDSHIP is the loveliest flower in the garden of humanity," according to my cherished friend, Dr. Hight C. Moore. I would add this thought—true friendship flowers in the garden of humanity, but it finds its life in the Garden of God's Perfect Eden.

I have not known one single friendship that has impressed me that did not stem from above. "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" And the only cement that will hold human hearts together—one soul in two bodies—is the grace of God.

"Friendship is as God, who gives and asks no payment," said Richard Hovey, and not until the human will is yielded to the will of God, even as was the will of Jonathan, can sacrificial friendship come to flower and to harvest.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Can Your Soups and Relishes Now (See recipes below)

Canning Tactics

ISN'T IT CONVENIENT to have home-canned foods in good supply before the garden runs out? Yes, you may have been putting up fruits and vegetables as well as some of the early jams, jellies and preserves, but how about some of those extras that help tide you through the winter?

There are a variety of home-canned soups which are simply grand when lunch time rolls around on a snowy day. And, of course, there are pickles and relishes that are always handy for adding zest to sandwich suppers or for rounding out the meat course.

IF YOU LIKE a good, well-seasoned tomato soup, here is an easy way to put up one. This is a small-sized recipe, but it is concentrated so it will go a long way after you heat it and add milk or water. Of course, the recipe can be multiplied.

Concentrated Tomato Soup (Makes 2 quarts)

- 12 pounds tomatoes
- 3 small bay leaves
- 12 whole cloves
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar

Choose firm, red ripe tomatoes. Wash and remove cores; then place in a large preserving kettle. Add bay leaves and heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Put through sieve or food mill, return to kettle and simmer until of the consistency of gravy. The cloves in a cheesecloth bag, and add during last five minutes of cooking time. Remove cloves and add salt. Pour into hot sterilized jars, place on lids and simmer for five minutes in a boiling water bath.

IF YOU LIKE to can meats, here are some ways which are delicious for preparing them:

Veal in Tomato Sauce (Makes 4 quarts)

- 2 1/4 quarts tomatoes
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
- 6 pounds boneless veal, cut for stew

Peel tomatoes, remove cores and slice thin before measuring. Or use one and one-half quarts cooked or canned tomatoes. Mix tomatoes with celery, salt, sugar and pepper; heat to boiling and cook rapidly for five minutes. Add veal, cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Pack into clean hot jars and fill to within one-half inch of top. Adjust lids according to manufacturers' directions. Process 75 minutes for pints, 90 minutes for quarts at 16 pounds pressure.

Beef for Stew (Makes 4 quarts)

- 10 pounds beef
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 2 tablespoons salt

Use either chuck or rump of beef. Trim off excess fat and weigh meat after trimming. Wrap with damp cloth and cut into pieces to fit jars. Melt shortening and brown meat in skillet. When well browned add just enough water to cover, heating until all browned residue from skillet is dissolved to make a rich gravy. Pack meat into clean hot jars to within one inch of the top. Add one and one-half teaspoons salt to each quart. Adjust lids. Process 75 minutes for pints, 90 minutes for quarts at 16 pounds pressure.

LYNN SAYS: Housekeeping Is Easy With These Hints

Nail holes on walls where pictures have hung can be filled with a mixture of melted glue and extra fine sawdust. Pack this into the hole tightly before you paint your walls.

Keep waxed paper or towels handy in your kitchen for those times when you do peeling and measuring jobs. These can be folded up after use and you will have a clean table surface.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Salmon Salad in Cabbage Cups
- Potato Chips Assorted Pickles
- Molded Pear Salad Bran Muffins
- Coconut Cream Pie Beverage

ANY VEGETABLES you like may be used in a soup combination, but the processing should be done in a pressure cooker for vegetables unlike tomatoes are a non-acid food and need more processing.

If the garden is coming to the end of its yield, here's a good batch of soup that can be put up for it:

End-of-Garden Soup (Makes 3 quarts)

- 2 parsnips, peeled
- 2 medium-sized potatoes
- 4 carrots, scraped
- 2 cups quartered, peeled tomatoes
- 2 bunches celery, cut
- 1 sweet red pepper, trimmed and cut in strips
- 1/4 pound spinach, washed and shredded
- 1 cup cut green beans
- 2 quarts water

Clean all vegetables thoroughly before preparing. Cut in rather small pieces. Place in soup kettle, add water and simmer for two to three minutes. Pack while hot into clean jars; add one teaspoon salt to each quart. Adjust lids; process in pressure cooker, 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for pints, or 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for quarts.

Chili Sauce (Makes 4 pints)

- 10 tomatoes
- 1 quart chopped sweet red peppers
- 1 cup finely chopped white onions
- 1 hot red pepper, chopped
- 1 quart sugar
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 5 cups vinegar
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground cloves

Scald tomatoes, remove skins and cores. Clean and chop remaining vegetables. Heat to boiling in a large kettle and cook vigorously for one and one-half hours. Add spices tied in two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth and cook one-half hour longer until the mixture is thickened. Remove spice bag. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal immediately.

Chunk Pickles (Makes 8 pints)

- 6 pounds large cucumbers
- 3 1/4 cups salt
- 3 quarts water
- 2 tablespoons alum
- 1 quart vinegar
- 8 cups sugar
- 2 2-inch sticks cinnamon
- 2 blades mace
- 1 tablespoon whole cloves

Wash cucumbers; place in stone crock or jar; cover with cold brine made of salt and water; let stand two weeks. Remove cucumbers from brine, wash, trim off stem ends and cut crosswise into one-inch pieces. Cover with cold water; add alum; let stand overnight. Drain; wash well. Combine remaining ingredients and bring them to a boil. Pour immediately over cucumber chunks. Repeat the process for three mornings, reheating the syrup every time. On the fourth morning, place cucumbers in jars and pour hot syrup over them. Seal at once.

IF PARAMOUNT doesn't shoot the works and build John Lund into one of our foremost male stars, somebody is willfully blind. A most engaging young man to talk with, he is inclined to understate his talents, though they were marked enough to rate stardom for him in his second picture, "Perils of Pauline." He recently finished his fifth film, "The Tatlock Millions," and does some of his best work in his fourth, "A Foreign Affair." Success on the stage preceded Hollywood for him. Before that he wrote and sold radio shows and night club acts—and he's been a ditch digger, a soda jerker, and a carpenter in his time.

In the Ingrid Bergman film, "Joan of Arc" you'll see Jose Ferrer, as the Dauphin of France, steal a kiss from a lady in waiting during a game of croquet. Nobody on the set at the time that scene was filmed suspected that romance was blooming. They learned it only recently when Ferrer and the lady in waiting, Phyllis Hill, were married in Greenwich, Conn.

George Raft and other members of the cast of "Outpost of Morocco" spent several months abroad with production and camera crews, so that the picture would be really authentic. Now they have settled down in Hollywood, with Robert Florey directing, to make interior sequences to match up with the location shots. United Artists will release.

Anne Jeffreys, who made her film debut in westerns before winning dramatic and operatic fame on Broadway, is back on the range again as one of the five stars in RKO's "Return of the Bad Man," Randolph Scott's new film.

Alan Dale, baritone of CBS's "Sing It Again," is where he is because he took a dare. When he was 16 he passed an open air cafe at Coney Island with a friend. Hearing a singer lose in her effort to keep up with the orchestra, the friend suggested that Alan could do better, dared him to try it. You'll see him in a Columbia short before long.

Jane Wyman's dramatic ability has in the past won her an Academy Award nomination. The award may come as a result of her being chosen for the starring role in "Serenade," the Michael Curtiz production with Jerry Wald producing. That's the combination which brought Joan Crawford an Oscar in "Mildred Pierce." A visit to Mexico will prepare Jane for the role.

After the "Stop the Music" debut, Jack McCoy, music publisher, hummed the "mystery tune" ("A Vision of Salome") to his staff arrangers. He couldn't identify it, nor could they. Nor could he find anyone who could. Not until it was recognized by the lucky contestant did McCoy learn that his firm is the publisher of the selection!

Odds and Ends... Claudia Morgan, of "Right to Happiness," was cured of superstition when her dressing room mirror broke the night of her stage debut, yet she and the play were both hits... After making "A Foreign Affair" after three years' absence from films, Jean Arthur says she won't wait too long before making another picture... Since it was announced that Virginia Mayo would star as a bathing beauty in "The Girl from Jones Beach" she has received 71 bathing suits... Jack Carson's new ranch is paying off: in one week he sold 600 home-grown broilers for two dollars apiece.

"Amos 'n' Andy" are back in Hollywood and hard at work on scripts for the 1948-49 series. Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, who play the famous characters, promise a complete new deal, with bigger parts for Amos.

John Ford wants people to remember that he picked John Agar for "Fort Apache" before he knew that Mrs. Shirley Temple Agar was available—not because, to get Shirley, he had to sign up her husband also.

Jay Walking Dangerous

That short distance to the corner goes a long way toward keeping people alive. American pedestrians are warned by safety experts striving to reduce the huge annual traffic death toll by curbing unsafe pedestrian acts. Approximately 11,000 persons are run down and killed by motor vehicles every year—and half of them are crossing streets and rural roads between intersections. Coming from behind parked cars and crossing the street at places other than designated crosswalks are the most dangerous things the man on foot can do in traffic, according to the accident prevention department, Association of Casualty and Surety companies. Jaywalking killed over 3,200 and injured 51,000 pedestrians in this country in 1947, the department pointed out. Walking in the roadway and crossing against the traffic signal are the next most important reasons why so many persons lose their lives or are crippled for life.

POT-SHOTS FROM McCAULLEY

GEORGE DARDEN

Omitted From Last Week.

Cpl. Wilburn Faulkenberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Faulkenberry was buried in the McCaulley Cemetery last Thursday after a Military Funeral service at the McCaulley Baptist Church and at the graveside. He was 22 years of age at the time of death and was killed in action October 17, 1944 in New Guinea. He was an anti-aircraft gunner and was killed when a enemy plane crashed into his gun position. His parents received the Purple Heart, awarded them posthumously January 15, 1945. Survivors are his parents, two sisters; Mrs. John Battle of Alder, Washington, Mrs. J. C. Kinsey of Crane; and one brother, LeRoy who is in the Army Air Corps and stationed at Camp Hood, Wilburn or "Dub" as he was known by friends in this community, where he was reared, attended the McCaulley High School and grew up on the farm in this community. The funeral service was one of the most impressive services seen in these parts. Rev. Posey, pastor of the Hamlin First Baptist Church conducted the service at the church and the service at the graveside was conducted by a Chaplain and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the Hamlin Post No. 6014. Our deepest sympathy to the Faulkenberry family.

Worst Congress in modern history has adjourned. It did so in contempt for the welfare of the American people. It laughed at a rising crisis, thumbed its nose at the public school system, weakened social security, encouraged inflation and generally showed it self to be the tool of big corporations and highly paid lobbyists. Congress took care of its own housing problems in Washington while it opposed rent control for the nation as a whole. It enacted its own pay 50 per cent while refusing to increase wages of people earning only $16 per week. It reduced them for the poor. Congress shuddered at the public health bill which would guarantee medical attention for people who were sick and poor. This was branded as "socialized medicine".

Congress also shuddered at the proposal to help public schools by appropriating $300,000,000. This money would provide schooling for 2,000,000 American children who have had none at all. They are condemned to live in illiteracy. Yet Congress appropriated $265,000,000 for tobacco and liquor for destitute Europeans. Congress said that federal aid for the public schools was Communistic. Does Congress think it can kill Communism by getting Europe drunk and America ignorant? The Republican Congress fails to shine, not even in the moonlight. It just stinks and stinks! Surely, we the people, will not think of voting Republican ticket no matter who the Democratic nominee for President. Can we forget the "Hoover days" when folks went hungry? Didn't the "New Deal with Roosevelt" stop the "black-eyed peas" for breakfast? And when we go to the polls the 24th let's not forget to scratch coffee-drinking, calculating Coke who opposed FDR on every turn of the wheel.—Yours, George.

Greatest display of neighborly friendship and hospitality for friends in need gathered Thursday on the farms of the late D. M. Maberry when 26 tractors, their drivers and 60 hoe hands met and worked out 470 acres for the Maberry family. The ladies of the community which numbered about 50 prepared one of the most lovely noon day lunches seen in these parts. It was a great day, doing unto others as you would have them do unto you in the same circumstances. No greater community exists where neighbors love one another and are always more than willing to sacrifice if need be to help a friend. Yes, the folks who turned out to work out the crop of a friend will surely reap their reward in the next world. And too, we know that no one could appreciate the spirit more than the Maberry family. And in behalf of Mrs. Maberry and her children we take this method of thanking each and everyone who so generously gave their time and work. The Sylvester Coop Association who filled the tractors with free gas at noon also have the deepest appreciation from the farmers and the Maberry family. Yes, it's good to live in community-like McCaulley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Callaway went to Lamesa last week-end to attend the funeral of a granddaughter who died suddenly.

Mrs. George Bond from Lubbock and Mrs. Howard Davidson and children from Lubbock and James Woods from Sweetwater visited parents and other relatives in this community last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Darden attended the funeral of Tommie Murdock, a cousin, in Jayton last Saturday. Murdock, a rancher, in Hamilton County died in a Temple hospital the 15th.

The Church of Christ meeting began Sunday in McCaulley and you are cordially invited to attend the services.

This column is supporting Lyndon Johnson for the Senate for several reasons: First, Johnson is young enough and full of energy all of which it takes to get the job done. Second: He is a world war veteran and knows the need of our country. Third: He stopped in the halls of Congress the government's attitude in wrecking and dismantling Army camps which we are likely to need any minute as the Russian Bear is snapping at our heels. Yep, Ole' calculating Coke is too old, has no ambition with the exception of just having the honor of being a member of the Senate. He should retire to his ranch near Junction and smoke his pipe and dream what he had done as Governor. That is, he takes the credit where by the legislature is rightly due all the credit.

This column is supporting Harley Sadler. We have many reasons for that. We do think his opponent is a good man and a good representative but, a little new blood in the Senate won't hurt a thing.

Ted Abbott has been appointed election Judge for McCaulley Saturday. Come on out and vote folks, it's your duty.

Mrs. Dan Maberry left for Lamesa Sunday for a visit with children and families in that city.

Army, Air Force Desire High Type Young Applicants

Both the Department of the Army and Air Force are doing their utmost to procure the high-career soldiers or airmen accorded possible type of young men as in to a report to Hamlin youths from Wayne Hall, Captain AF Station, Abilene.

Educational standards have been established by these two departments so as to raise the calibre of the regular serviceman. These standards have been rather high, especially in the case of the Air Force, which until the enactment of recent legislation nearly approached its authorized strength of enlisted men.

Many of the men making up this group were barely able to make the grade for enlistment academically, thus creating an imbalance in the highly technical Air Force of those men who were capable of receiving and imparting information to others with a fair degree of efficiency, and those who qualify only for general duty.

A short time ago the Air Force devised a means of augmenting enlistments of those men so vitally needed in the training and supervision of other groups of enlistees. The system amounts to this: Any young man who has a high school education or better is permitted by written agreement with the Commanding General, Air Training Command to elect a specialized course of training from some 40 courses in professional schools offered by the Air Training Command. When his choice is made known the Command upon written application, the applicant is notified and when the course of training will begin for him and he enlists knowing that this course and its pursuit in duty will be followed during his enlistment.

Any other information on this matter may be obtained from the local recruiter at the post office in Hamlin.

Many ex-servicemen may also enlist for direct assignment in the European Theatre if he has a specific Military Occupational Specialty, and must enlist in the grade of Sgt or lower, an opportunity that has been non-existent for almost two years.

The class composition was about "Kings." One boy wrote:

"The most powerful king on earth is Wor-king; the laziest, Shir-king; one of the worst kings, Smo-king; the wittiest, Jo-king; the quietest, Thin-king; the thirstiest, Drink-king; the slickest, Win-king; and the nosiest, Tal-king."

end.

The new Roby hospital is going over big we note from a list of patients published in the paper there. Its really a nice hospital in which any county should be proud.

Mrs. Daisy Martin and children from El Paso are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davidson. Roy Henington left Monday with several boys for the Leuders encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Dean and daughter from Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Dean and daughter from Abilene are visiting in the home of parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Deon in McCaulley.

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONERS PRECINCT NO. 1---

I take this opportunity to present to each and all of the voters of this precinct, my candidacy for this office. For the past 15 years, I have been employed by the Commissioner of this precinct as roadman and I am thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office and what it means to the citizens to have their roads kept in good condition. I have given all my time to the road work and if I am elected as your county commissioner, I will devote my entire time to the duties of the office as I know it to be a full time job. I hereby solicit your influence and vote in the election this coming Saturday.

Respectfully requested;

R. B. (BOONE) BOYD
